Introduction

The church of St Leonard, Chelwood

The church is part of the Benefice of Chew Valley East, which comprises three village parishes - All Saints', Publow with Pensford; St Mary's, Compton Dando; and St Leonard's, Chelwood.

In the Bath Chronicle of Thu 26 Sep 1793 p4 in a list of gamekeepers' certificates, an entry for one has the manor or lands: 'East and West Chelworth, otherwise Chelwood'. The reference to 'Chelworth' also appears on the internal memorial which describes a benefaction.

From the Bath Chronicle of Thu 15 Sep 1831 p2 in a report of various coronation festivities that had occurred:

CHELWOOD—The Rev. Mr. Chamberlain in committee with several gentlemen of the parish, gave all the poor a plentiful feast of good English fare, for which purpose a fine sheep was roasted, and a plentiful supply of strong beer was provided. The day passed off with great harmony, and the hilarity of the villagers was heightened by a variety of rural sports.

An advertisement in the Bath Chronicle of Thu 21 Feb 1861 p4 invited builders to submit tenders for "the partial rebuilding of, and adding an aisle to the parish church of Chelwood".

From the Bath Chronicle of Thu 19 Sep 1861 p8:

"The parish church of Chelwood, a little village situated near Pensford, Somerset, and containing by the last census returns, but one hundred and eighty-three inhabitants, was re-opened for Divine service on Tuesday last, after having undergone thorough restoration. From the previous dilapidated condition of the sacred edifice, this renovation has placed within the reach of the churchgoers of Chelwood a boon for which their best thanks are due to the generous donors towards the building fund.

The contractor for the work is Mr. E. Streeter, of Bath, who appears to have completed his task in a very satisfactory manner, from the designs and under the direction of the famous ecclesiastical architect, Mr. J. Norton, of Bond Street, London. The contract for the nave porch and new aisle was £420: for the works in the chancel, £115, and the partial rebuilding of the tower (irrespective of the painted glass), £85. We may here be allowed to state that the deficit in the building fund, previous to the collections at the re-opening services, was about £100. Among the principal subscribers was the Earl of Warwick, £100; and Mr. Popham, £100."

(Chelwood was for some time owned by the Duke of Warwick's estate but the eastern part passed to the Popham family who held the manor at Hunstrete.) The reopening was conducted by the Lord Bishop of Bath & Wells supported by Prebendary Ommanney, the rural dean, and over a dozen of clergy from neighbouring parishes.

"After the service, the company, to the number of between three and four hundred, adjourned to a spacious marquee adjoining the rectory, where, by the liberality of the farmers and other friends in the locality, a cold collation was laid. The Lord Bishop presided. . . . The company then withdrew to make room for the schoolchildren, for whom tea had been provided, in further celebration of the event which will be ever regarded as a red-letter day in the annals of the parish of Chelwood."

From the Western Daily Press of Sat 15 Aug 1903 p7:

"The ancient bell belonging to Chelwood Church has been re-cast and re-hung as a memorial to the late rector. A bronze tablet inserted in the wall of the church bears the following inscription: "To the glory of God and in pious memory of James Benjamin Head Hawkins, R.D., Prebendary of Wells, and for 23 years rector of Chelwood, the ancient bell of this church was restored by many of his friends in the diocese in the year of our Lord, 1903." A similar bronze tablet has been inserted in the wall on the opposite side of the tower, and records the Coronation memorial of last year as follows:- "To the glory of God, and to commemorate the Coronation of King Edward VII, the chimes were placed in this church by parishioners and friends.""

From the Western Daily Press of Mon 6 Apr 1931 p4:

“Tomorrow the Archdeacon of Bath, Ven. S. A. Boyd, will dedicate three restored 15th-16th century two light windows of south aspect in the nave of Chelwood parish church. . . . It is not known how the common foreign glass came to be included in the west window but it is thought that some valuable fragments of early English glass found must have been part of the original windows existing before the Reformation.”

Burial Registers

At Somerset Heritage Centre:

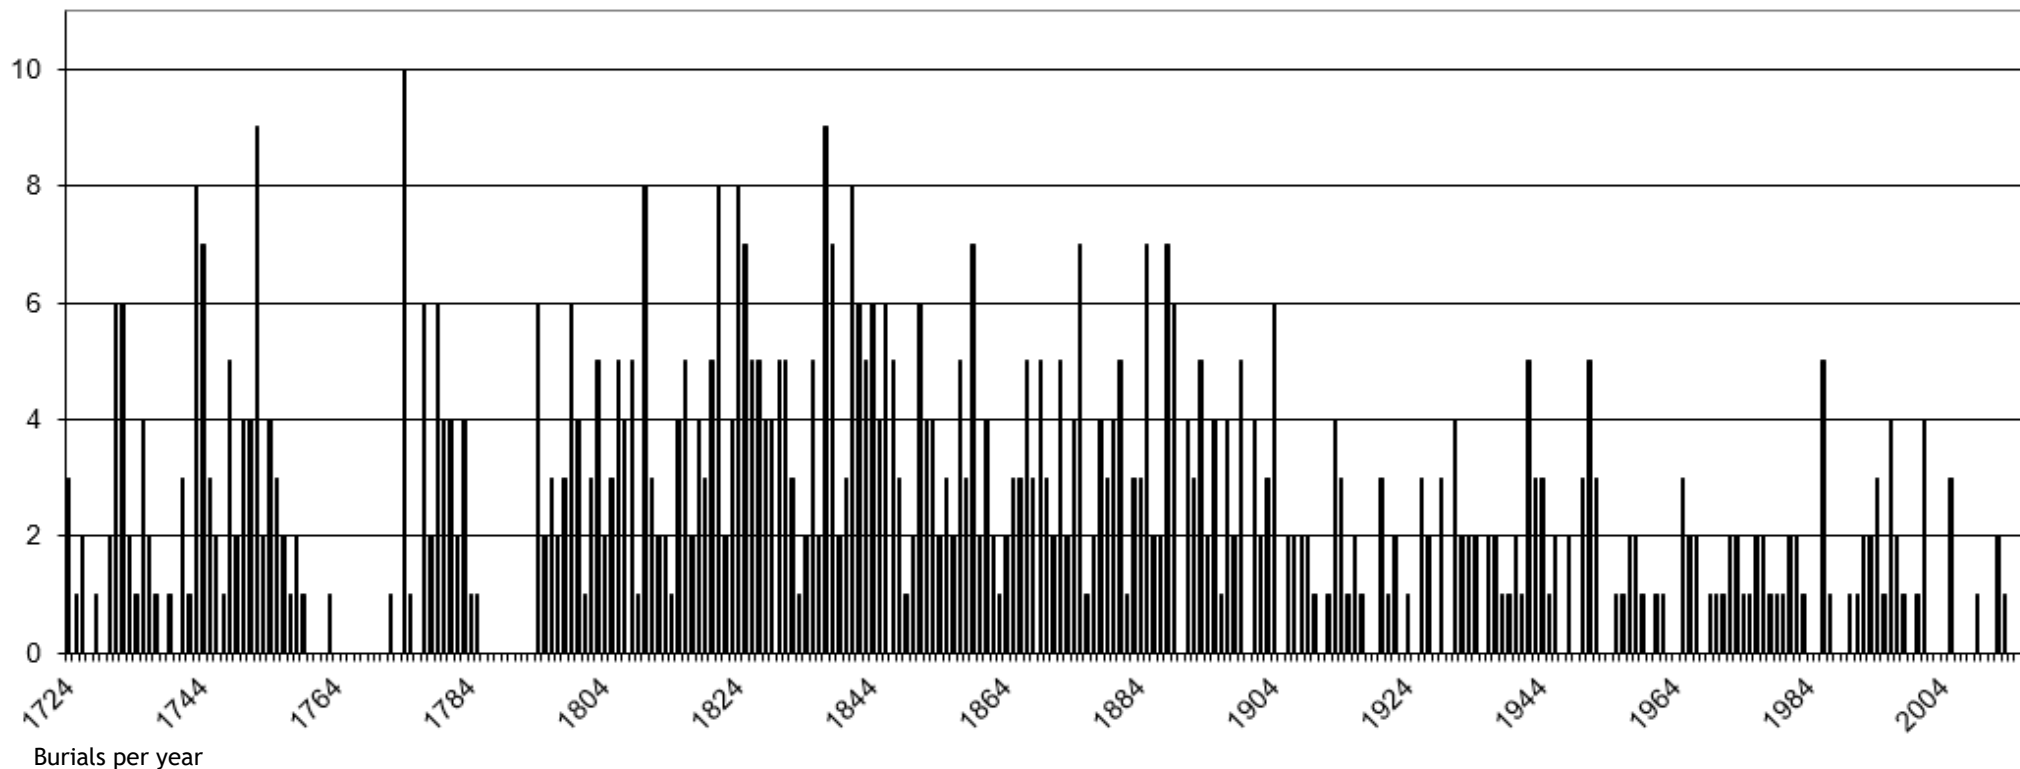

D/P/chel 2/1/1 Burials 1720-1812

D/P/chel 2/1/6 Burials 1813-1973

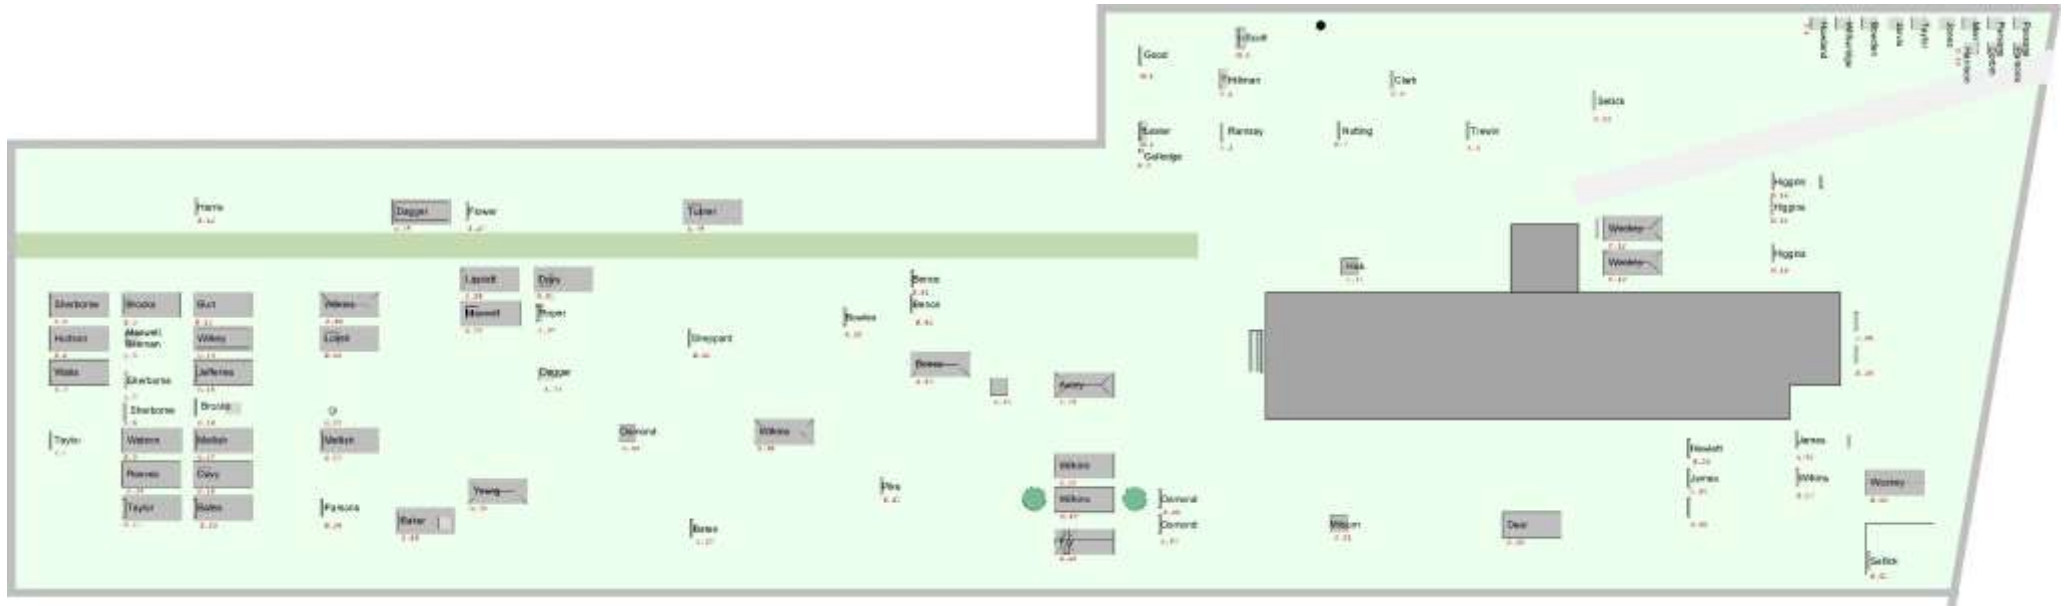

The burial register for the period 1720-1812 has some anomalies. There are some years where there are no entries. Towards the end of the volume there is a jump from 1805 to 1808 and then, past 1810, are various entries for 1806-1808. Some of these are pieces of paper glued into the book, possibly from the clerk's notes. Some of these are duplicates but some have different dates. For example, Robert

Dear has burial dates of both 18-Mar- and 11-Jun- 1809.

At the end of the book is a memorandum: “This book has been in the Custody of the Revd William Rymer late Curate of Stowey from ye year 1751 to the 17th of July . . . N B no entries have been made by Him in this Book from the 24th of July 1760 till the Year 1765, when Wm Lamb Grimstead was baptized and registered by Mr Deare Rector.”

We cannot allow another week to pass without paying to his memory some tribute of respect. Nor are we less disposed to do so, because, as one of the most exemplary members of the Church, he had even maintained that high esteem among all who knew him which no language of ours can fully express—an esteem consequent on the appreciation of his worth by the wise, and the deep-felt love of the good, which includes equally the rich and the poor, the learned and the simple. Richard Warner, whose name among the literati is one of an enduring character, whose History of Bath, Travels, Sermons, and other productions have all successively received their public welcome, and of which few libraries are without

		a remembrance, was, in the early part of the present century, well known in this city as the most eminent preacher of the day. He was Curate of St. James's Church, which was then filled with the élite of the city. Those who recollect his popularity at that time, who admired his eloquence, who were enlightened by his arguments, and impressed with his admonitions, will agree with us that his was a type of that kind of oratory which was consistent with the emphatic and logical language of the Apostles, with the sublime solemnities and simple truths of the Gospel, and with the chaste and truly beautiful language of the Church of England Liturgy; that the service of the Church, as conducted by him, was one whole of sober, thoughtful, hopeful feeling, in every point and particular tending to exalt the thoughts and enlist the sympathies of every hearer. They will agree with us that such a minister was worthy distinguished consideration and of a high position. In no station, however, could he have been more useful than in that to which all attendant circumstances of his life confined him. Never, perhaps, was any man known of less ambition; so moderate indeed were his pretensions that, when the occasion came for him to be a village pastor, he retired from his duties, where he delighted a numerous and refined congregation, to teach the Gospel to the humble tillers of the soil without, we believe, the slightest feeling of regret for the loss of any advantage on his own account. He was pleased with the performance of his duty, he rejoiced in its success and he was sure that one would follow the other in any location assigned to him. He died, as stated in our last, at the extremely advanced age of 93, during 40 years of which lengthened period he was a village pastor, the beloved of numerous friends from whom he was removed, and himself the unostentatious, ever active, and enduring friend of the poor in a narrower circle, one quite large enough, however, for the exercise of the Christian virtues to which he was supremely devoted. Journal.
