		Whiteley Beaumont, an estate near Huddersfield was the home of the Beaumont family for centuries, had a 17th century house, rebuilt in the 18th century with gardens laid out by Capability Brown. Reported as being left empty in the early part of the 20th century before being sold in 1924. The house was demolished in the 1950s. From The English Counties in The Nineteenth Century by Thomas Moule, 1837:  Whitley-hall, the seat of Thomas Richard Beaumont, esq., is advantageously situated on an elevated plain, declining towards the west, but sheltered by higher grounds on the east. The park is surrounded by a plantation, which contributes to shelter and render the spot conspicuous as an object in the midst of the numerous elevations with which the face of the country abounds. The house, probably built in the reign of James I. was new pointed in 1704. It contains a numerous collection of family portraits, and the domestic chapel is enriched with some excellently carved oak. According to peerage.com Richard Thomas Beaumont, son of Henry Ralph Beaumont and Katherine Cayley, was the eldest son, lived in Western Australia and died without issue. However Henry Beaumont (1833-1913) would seem to be an elder son. He was an MP, Honorary Colonel in the 2nd Volunteer Battalion of the West Riding Division and a vice patron of the Yorkshire Archaeological Society. He inherited the Whitley Beaumont estate from his godfather Richard Henry Beaumont. In the Kalgoorlie West Argus of Thu 3 Nov 1898 in an article on mining news "Eucalyptus and Pyke's Hollow are now in possession of public crushing facilities owing to the enterprise and energy of Mr T. R. Beaumont. Prospectors should find the country between there and Lake Carey a happy hunting ground." There was a report in the Kalgoorlie Western Argus of Thu 13 Jul 1899 (p20) of the appointment of Mr T R Beaumont as JP for the Coolgardie goldfields. In the Western Australian of Sat 21 Jul 1900 a reference to T R Beaumont has his location as Eucalyptus.  (Coolgardie was founded in 1892 when gold was discovered. By the early 1900s the gold began to decrease.) Passengers on the SS Persic from Albany (W Australia) to London
