Introduction

The church of St Saviour, Larkhall

The parish of St Saviour's, serving Larkhall, was originally part of Walcot parish. The church opened in 1832. It did not have its own registers until 1840 and burials in the period 1832-1840 are in the Walcot register, but without an indication of burial place.

The Bath Chronicle of Thu 25 Oct 1832 reported the burial of Rear-Admiral Volant Vashon Ballard stating that "He was buried Thursday last in the crypt of St Saviour's new church, Walcot, the first interment which has taken place there." During the inquiry into the state of burial grounds reported in the Bath Chronicle of Thu 26 Nov 1857 it was stated for St Saviour's "there is a well-formed crypt in which interment is limited to close relationship. ... The number of funerals during the past year was only four".

From the Bath Chronicle of Thu 3 May 1832 p2: CONSECRATION OF ST. SAVIOUR'S CHURCH WALCOT

This building, which rivals in elegance that much admired structure St. Mary's, Bathwick, was consecrated on Saturday. In point of architectural beauty, both externally and internally this church is generally considered to be unrivalled by any ecclesiastical structure of modern date in this part of the country. Mr. Pinch was the Architect. The Tower forms a very beautiful object to the surrounding neighbourhood. It is elegantly proportioned, and consists of three stories, the angles being ornamented with graduated octangular buttresses, surmounted with pinnacles decorated with sunk panels, crockets, and finials: the whole to the height of 120 feet. The interstices of the windows are ornamented with perforated quatrefoils. The upper part of the tower terminates with great richness and delicacy. The exterior of the side walls of the church are flanked by bold buttresses finished with crocketed pinnacle, between which are five windows filled with elegant tracery. The former and the walls of the choir are surmounted with perforated parapets. The interior of the church consists of three divisions, a choir, and two side aisles, the latter of which are provided with galleries. The choir is separated from the side aisles by five lofty pointed arches on each side, springing from clustered pillars, the ceiling of which is elevated above the former, and groined; the ribs and bosses producing an elegant effect. In the design of the east window, together with the pulpit, reading desk, and altar piece, the architect has been very successful, and the whole form as a termination, the tout ensemble of which presents a striking effect from the western entrance. Beneath the floor of the church is a spacious, dry, and well-aired crypt for interment.

In celebration of the day a flag was hoisted on the tower, and the bells, eight in number, presented by Wm. Hooper, esq; were rung in lively and beautiful peals during the morning. Shortly after 10 o'clock, a very numerous body of the clergy and laity assembled at the house of Mr. Geary, the senior churchwarden of Walcot, in Grosvenor-place, whence they walked in procession to the church, preceded by the boys of the Blue Coat School, the monitors of the National School, and the Brown School. The Bishop arrived shortly afterwards, and the consecration service having been performed, the prayers were read by the Rev. H. C. Crook, the appointed minister; after which an excellent and appropriate sermon was preached by the Rev. C. M. Mount, Prebendary of Wells, from xix Leviticus, v.30: "Ye shall keel my Sabbaths and reverence my Sanctuary." . . .

At the conclusion of the service, the Bishop, Clergy, and numerous gentry returned to Mr. Geary's house at which a handsome cold collation was provided at the joint expense of that liberal and public spirited gentleman, and his active colleague, Mr. Howe.

Lord James O'Brien having expressed the delight which he felt at the service in which they had that day been engaged, avowed his firm and decided attachment to the Established Church of this kingdom and concluded by proposing the health of the Lord Bishop and the Clergy of the Diocese.

The inquiry into the state of burial grounds in Bath which took place in November 1857 led to an order that the crypt of St Saviour's be closed. However burials continued there until at least 1891 with 46 burials in the period 1858-1891.

St Saviour's, Bath - Memorial Inscriptions

There are about a ninety internal memorials as wall plaques. Of these, the majority are of the same general form as a white marble shield on a black background.

The documentation here is based on a visit made on 17 May 2019.

Acknowledgements

I am grateful to Rev Michael Norman, Rector of St Saviour's with Swainswick and Woolley, for facilitating the survey of the crypt.

He represented King's in the Legislative Assembly of New Brunswick from 1785 to 1816. He was born in Boston, the son of Nathaniel Coffin and Elizabeth Barnes. Coffin entered the British Army and fought at the Battle of Bunker Hill. He became a major in the Orange Rangers in 1777, serving in New Jersey and New York, and later transferred to the New York Volunteers, which saw action in Georgia and South Carolina. In 1781, he married Ann Mathews. Coffin became a major in the King's American Regiment in 1782. In 1783, he was placed on half pay and brought his family to what is now New Brunswick. Coffin acquired a large estate from Beamsley Perkins Glasier, where he built a grist mill and a sawmill. He also sold fish, lumber and rum. Coffin was named a justice of the peace and a judge in the Inferior Court of Common Pleas. In 1812, he was named to the New Brunswick Council. Coffin raised the New Brunswick Fencibles during the War of 1812. In 1819, he was given the rank of full general. In 1817, Coffin moved to England but he retained his position on the New Brunswick Council until 1828. He later returned to New Brunswick and died in Westfield Parish. From Founders' Day Address Thu 6 Mar 1958 by W Stewart McNutt, Professor of History, University of New Brunswick: JOHN COFFIN Easily the most colourful and certainly the most martial of our memorialists was John Coffin, a sea-faring lad of Boston who volunteered for service with the royal forces on the day of Bunker Hill. On the ascent of that fire-swept slope his conduct was so fearless that he was awarded a commission on the field and throughout the remainder of the war he was famed as one of the most redoubtable of the cavalry commanders on the British side. At Eutaw Springs, at the head of seventy of the King's American Dragoons, he shattered 300 of the enemy in an open fight, losing only three of his own men and killing |

Following the battle the rebel General Greene, though placing a price of $10,000 on his head, publicly pronounced upon his valour. When Charleston was occupied by the rebels he made an entrance to the city in order to visit the lady to whom he was betrothed and, according to a well-authenticated tradition, when his rendezvous was interrupted by a wary American patrol, he escaped capture by concealing himself beneath a hooped skirt though he was a man of six feet, two inches. Awarded a handsome sword by Lord Cornwallis in token of his distinguished services, he was a member of the advance guard of the provincial regiments that came to the Saint John River and superintended the clearing of land on the west side of the harbor of Saint John. Unlike most Yankees of his time he had a reverence for ancestry and tradition. On the banks of the Nerepis he purchased the estate of Beamsley Glazier and called it Alwington Manor, the name of a residence constructed by a Norman ancestor in Somerset on the shores of the Bristol Channel. . . . Like a good member of the English squirearchy he believed in the settled, ordered life of villages and when he died in 1838, a full general in the British Army, he was, after the fashion of a good English landlord, buried in the parish church at Westfield. From the form for placing a General Officer's Widow on the Pension List, dated 16 Jul 1838: I Ann Coffin of No 18 Alfred Street in the City of Bath in the County of Somerset do solemnly and sinceely declare, that I was lawfully married at Charleston South Carolina on the . . . day of October 1781 to John Coffin late a General in Her Majesty;s Serivce who died at St, John New Brunswick on 12 May 1838 that ever since his decease I have contnued a Widow There is no entry for John Coffin in either the St Swithin's or St Saviour's burial registers. From the St Swithin's burial register: Anne Coffin, aged 76, of 3 Fountain Buildings, was buried on 2 Apr 1839. |

ONLY SURVIVING SON, OF ROBERT STONE OF EFFRA HOUSE, SURREY, ESQ^{RE} J.P. DIED SEPT^R 9TH 1879. "AT REST." |  From a history of The Old Dulwich Burial Ground by The Dulwich Society: "Robert Stone was one of the Justices of the Peace for Surrey, and lived in Effra House, Brixton (Gents Mag). Between 1791 and 1806 he bought the Heathrow Estate in four parts; it was then known as Effra Farm. It comprised some 70 acres south of Coldharbour Lane on the east side of Effra Road and the north-east side of Dulwich Road. The value of the land was greatly enhanced by the layout of Effra Road in 1810 by the Lambeth Inclosure Commissioners, and again a few years later by the building of St. Matthew's Church. Stone divided the northern part of the area into plots and granted long leases. A few detached houses (none of which now survives) were then built. Robert Stone died in 1820, leaving a widow and seven children, all minors. His estate was so heavily burdened with debts that his executors refused to act, and his affairs were finally settled under Chancery supervision by a private Act of Parliament." The death of Robert Nathaniel Stone, aged 65, was registered 1879/Q3 Bath. Crypt

Access to the crypt is by an external door at the eastern end of southern side of the church. Steps lead down to an area with boilers for the heating. There are lights.

The burials are arranged between the vaulted supports which run west to east with 5 places at floor level and then three shelves, with two of these having 5 places and the topmost three, sometimes five. Each grouping therefore has the potential for 20 places. Each burial place is 2' (60cm) high and 30" (75cm) wide although those at the top are smaller because of the curve of the vaulting. The covers have incised inscriptions of between two and seven lines. Some inscriptions have deteriorated but many are legible. At various places there are gaps which lead to an area which might have further burials. This was not explored.

The burials do not extend to the walls of the church and, in gaps, it is possible to see the void between the tombs and the walls. There is no ready way of accessing the voids without finding a gap on the shelves. It possible that there may be further burials there. Not all spaces are filled.

For numbering, given that the top row may contain differing numbers, I have taken the bottom left-hand side as number 1, with the bottom row as 1-5, the next row up 6-10 etc. The bays are numbered 1 in the south-eastern corner (the first on the left-hand side) up to 4 on that side, and then 5-10 with 10 opposite the stairs.

From the Bath Chronicle of Thu 29 Oct 1874 p5:
 Oct. 22, at 39, Grosvenor-plcae, London, Anne, Marchioness of Thomond, aged 83.
 From the Bath Chronicle of Thu 5 Nov 1847 p7:
 FUNERAL OF THE MARCHIONESS OF THOMOND.—The mortal remains of her ladyship were interred on Thursday last, in the crypt of St. Saviour's Church, Larkall, by the side of the body of the late Marquis, who was deposited there in July 1855. The funeral cortege started at York House hotel . . .
 The remans were enclosed in three coffins, the outer one being of English oak, French polished, and ornamented with massive brass handles. The breast plate was also of brass, and bore the following inscription :—

St Saviour's, Bath - Memorial Inscriptions

The form of the names on the monument are, as with most such, as initials and surname. This monument, however, doesn't give rank and regiment.

In order to establish the full names of the individuals the lists of those who died in WWI, in particular the Commonwealth War Graves Commission and references in the Bath Chronicle, have been consulted. In most cases this has been successful.

The late Bill Hanna, who documented many war memorials in Bath, has pointed out that the process of putting together the list of names for the war memorials tended to be an informal one and depended on names being submitted and people recollecting the names of people they knew had died. So the Bath Chronicle of Sat 15 Sep 1917 has a sub-heading of 'Larkhall Soldier Killed in Action' and refers to Private George Albert Lockyer, of the Gloucestershire Regiment, but his name does not appear on the memorial at St Saviour's.

Distinguishing between 'C' and 'G' on the memorial requires particular attention.

| | | From the Bath Chronicle of Sat 2 Nov 1918 p16: Lance-Corporal Tom Batten, Dorset Regiment, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Batten, of the Grosvenor Post Office, is reported to have been wounded on the night of October 12th. . . . Lance-Corporal Batten was formerly in the Somerset Light Infantry, and is an Old Edwardian. From the Bath Chronicle of Sat 9 Jan 1918 p10: Mr. and Mrs. J. Batten, of Kensington, had known for some days that their elder son, Lance-Corporal Thomas Frederick Batten, Dorset Regt., became a casualty in night operations on October 11th, and now they have received officially the sad intelligence that upon that date he made the supreme sacrifice. Lacey-Corporal Batten joined the Somerset Light Infantry very soon after the outbreak of war in 1914, saw active service with the Dorsets, and went to France for a second time in August of this year. . . From a letter written by a comrade in hospital it appears that the company of which Lance-Corporal Batten was an N.C.O. came under machine gun fire while carrying out a reconnaissance, and it was hoped, at first, that he might only have been wounded. He was educated at King Edward's School, and his name is yet another addition to the sadly long list of Old Buys who have fallen in the war. Buried Montay-Neuvilly Road Cemetery (Nord-Pas-de-Calais). |

| | | Four old boys of St. Saviour's day school have laid down their lives for their country in the present war, viz.:—Arthur Townsend, Arthur Greenman, George Bishop and H. F. Lewis. From the Bath Chronicle of Sat 8 May 1915 p3: The sad intelligence has been received by Mt. and Mrs. Lewis, of 2, East Hayes Cottage, Chilton Road, Bath, that their only son, Sapper Henry Frederick Lewis, of the 1st Wessex Field Company, Royal Engineers, was killed in action while serving with the British Expeditionary Force in France on April 29th. This painful news has been received through the Territorial Force Record Office at Exeter. The deepest sympathy is felt for Mr. and Mrs. Lewis in their great sorrow. Sapper Lewis had been a member of the Engineers for four years, and was 22 years of age the morning he landed "somewhere in France" on December 24th last. He was a fitter at Messrs, Stothert and Pitt's, where his father, Mr. Harry Lewis, also works. . . . Henry Frederick Lewis, Sapper 525 1st/1st (Wessex) Field Coy. F. Lodge, of 3, Lambridge Buildings, in the distressing intelligence that their third son, Second Lieutenant William W. Lodge, Middlesex Regiment, has made the supreme sacrifice. The first message concerning the young officer arrived on Wednesday, a telegram from the War Office stating that he had been admitted to a casualty clearing station in France on the 16th, suffering from a shell wound in the abdomen, and added that a visit was not possible. On Thursday another official message conveyed the not unexpected notification that Second Lieutenant Lodge had died from his wounds. Deceased was a bright and much like lad of 19. He was educated at Bathforum School, and intended for the teaching profession as he showed so much promise as a scholar. It being seen that he would be required for his country's service, he assisted in his father's business for a short while till, when 17 years of age, he joined the Bristol University O.T.C. He passed all his examinations first class, and, after being at Oxford for a time, was gazetted to the Middlesex Regiment in the Special Reserve on October 31st last year. He was home on leave at Christmas. William Wass Lodge, Second Lieutenant died on 17 Apr 1908; Mendinghem Military Cemetery |

| A H Morris | Alfred Herbert Morris (1896-1917) | The marriage of Charles Henry George Morris to Ellen Harris was registered 1891/Q3 Bath. The birth of Alfred Herbert Morris was registered 1896/Q4 Bath, mother's maiden name: Harris. Baptised on 13 Dec 1896 at St Saviour's: Alfred Herbert, son of Henry & Helen Morris, of 5 Eldon Place, father's occupation: tailor, date of birth: 1 Oct 1896. From the Bath Chronicle of Sat 12 Sep 1914 p4: At St. Saviour's Church on Sunday the prayers of the congregation were offered on behalf of the following parishioners and other who are serving their King and country in the Army and Navy:— There follows a long list which includes: Herbert Morris From the Bath Chronicle of Sat 30 Jun 1917 p7 with a sub-heading 'Larkhall Mother Receives Good News': Another of those instances, alas too rare, in which a soldier mourned as dead has been heard to be alive, has occurred locally. Mr. and Mrs. C. H. G. Morris, of 5 Salisbury Road, some time ago, received an official notification from the War Office that their son, Sergt. Herbert Morris, of the Lincoln Regiment, was killed in action on April 28. The mother's delight can be imagined when, Tuesday morning, there was delivered to his home a postcard signed "Bert." It bore the imprint of Limburg, and said: "I am in the above hospital, and am being treated well." There are affectionate messages, and the usual request for "fags" to be sent to him. Though only twenty years of age, Sergt. Morris is quite an old soldier; he enlisted before the war broke out, and has seen a great deal of fighting on the Continent, for he was in the retreat from Mons, and the subsequent driving back of the Germans. All Mr. and Mrs. Morris's sons, five in number, are in the Army. In the Bath Chronicle of Sat 7 Jul 1917 is an article on 'The Five Sons of Mr. & Mrs. C. H. G. Morris' on page 3 photographs, the first being of 'Sergt H. A. Morris, twice wounded' and text on p17. From the Bath Chronicle of Sat 25 Aug 1917 p3: Mr. and Mrs. C. H. G. Morris of 5, Salisbury Road, Larkhall, have received the sad news that their third son, Sergeant Herbert A. Morris, has died a prisoner in Germany. It will be remembered that the gallant fellow was officially reported killed in April. Then some time afterwards came a postcard from him written from hospital in the internment camp at Limburg, and this caused great joy to the family. The intimation that he has died a prisoner in German hands comes from the War Office. . . . Sergeant Morris was in the Somersets before the war began, and was twice wounded in France while fighting with the "13th". Being transferred to a Service battalion of the Somersets, he was recommended for his promotion to sergeant for gallantry in the field by his company commander, the late Captain Arthur Beach Hatt, M.C. The deceased was 30 years of age, and prior to enlisting in the Canadian Infantry, had been nine years in Canada. He joined up in October 1914, came to England in April, 1915, and served for nearly a year in the trenches. He was the invalided to this country with trench fever, and transferring to the C.A.M.C., he made two voyages with the Llandovery Castle, before making what is feared to have been his last voyage. Besides the intimation which his parents have received from the Canadian Red Cross, official news has been received by a sister in Canada that he is missing. The HMHS Llandovery Castle was a hospital ship. It was torpedoed off southern Ireland on 27 Jun 1918. 234 of those on board died in the sinking and subsequent machine-gunning of the lifeboats. There were only 24 survivors in one lifeboat. | | | By the death of Lance-Corporal Frederick William Powney (23), Highland L.I. (Glasgow Highlanders), another Bath family has been plunged into mourning. The deceased soldier, who was the elder son of Mr. W. H. Powney, of 15, Chilton Road, sustained a shrapnel wound in the knee about Sept. 27th, and his death occurred in hospital a fortnight later. He joined up in January 1916, being at the time a draughtsman at the Albion Engineering Works, Glasgow. He received his early education at Walcot Council School, under the late Mr. Brewer, and he proceeded to the Technical School, where he passed the Oxford Junior and Senior Examinations, intending then to go to college preparatory to entering the teaching profession. However, at the last moment he gave up this idea, and, having a natural aptitude for drawing, his father gave him a special course of instruction for twelve months, after which he proceeded to the Albion Engineering Works, where he was doing excellently. . . . |

| G H Strong | George Henry Strong (1884-1917) | The birth of George Henry Strong was registered 1884/Q Bath, mother's maiden name: Exell. George Henry Strong, Lieutenant 2nd Nigerian WAFF, died on 3 Jan 1917; Dar es Salaam (Upanga Road) Cemetery II.E.4. From the Bath Chronicle of Sat 13 Jan 1917 p3 under a headline 'Headmaster of St Saviour's School - Killed in Action in East Africa': We deeply regret to record the death of Lieut. Geo. Strong, Nigerian Regiment, Headmaster of St. Saviour's School, Bath, killed in action in East Africa. The sad news reached his father, who resides at 7, Kennington Road, Lower Weston, in a telegram from the War Office, stating that he was killed on January 3rd. The mesaage expressed the Army Council's sympathy. Lieut. String, who would have been 33 years of age in May next, was born in Bath, and had lived here practically all his life, He served his pupil teachership at South Twerton, following which he went to Cheltenham Training College, and thence to a mastership at a Church of England School at Glossop. From this he returned to succeed Mr. Noad as headmaster of St. Saviour's School, where his short period of tenure had been very successful. Soon after the outbreak of war Mr. Strong went to India with the Somerset Light Infantry and after twelve months passed his qualifying examination as an officer, and returned to England to take up his commission. For a time after returning, he was stationed near Plymouth and for six or eight months he was at Bovington Camp, near Dorset. At his own request he was then sent to Nigeria, being posted to the Nigerian Regiment. He left England in October last, and proceeded at once with his regiment to take part in the campaign in German East Africa, where he has now made the supreme sacrifice. Since his departure his parents have only received one communication from him, a postcard which arrived a week ago. He has two brothers in the Army, Sergt Edgar Strong, R.A.M.C., now stationed at a hospital in London, and Bombardier Arthur Strong, R.F.A., who has been serving in France for two years. |

| W J Uphill | Reginald William James Uphill (1892-1918) | The birth of Reginald William James Uphill was registered 1892/Q3 Bath, mother's maiden name: Hazell. From the Bath Chronicle of Sat 6 Apr 1918 p6: Second Lieutenant Reginald W. J. Uphill, Royal Fusiliers, was killed in action in France on March 22nd, a notification to that effects from the War Office reaching his sister, Mrs. Burt, of 7, Eastbourne Terrace, on Tuesday. Deceased was the son of the late Mrs. Uphill, of 7, Worcester Terrace, who died suddenly at Kensington five years ago. He was educated at Bathforum School, and, gaining the Mayor's scholarship there, went to the Bath City Secondary School for five years. He was one of the most successful students there. Twice he won the Roxburgh prize, and in 1910 passed the Oxford Senior Examination with honours, and was exempted from matriculation. He obtained a good appointment with the General Electric Company at Cardiff, and was in their offices when war broke out. At that time he was a corporal in the South-Western R.A.M.C. Territorials; he had served four years, but immediately re-enlisted, and went to the Near East in that unit. He served in Gallipoli and Egypt from September, 1915, to February, 1917. He then came home, entered a Cadet School, and was gazetted to the Royal Fusiliers on 27th June last. He was home on leave just before Christmas, and was expected in Bath again now; indeed, when the telegram arrived his sister expected it was a wire announcing his arrival in England. The gallant young officer was 25 years of age. His nephew, Sapper John Burt, of the Wessex R.E., who was badly wounded at Salonika, being shot in the stomach, has been discharged from the Army, being totally incapacitated, after a long period in hospital. Reginald William James Uphill, Second Lieutenant 1st Battalion Royal Fusiliers, died aged 25 on 22 Mar 1918; brother of Mrs. J.
