Introduction

The church of the Holy Trinity, High Littleton

From the Imperial Gazetteer of England and Wales 1870-72 by John Marius Wilson:

LITTLETON (HIGH), a village and a parish in Clutton district, Somerset. The village stands 8½ miles SW by W of Bath r. station, and is considerable.—The parish contains also the hamlet of Hallatrow, which has a postoffice under Bristol. Acres, 1,273. Real property, £4,223. Pop., 860. Houses, 179. High Littleton House is the seat of John R. Mogg, Esq.; Kingwell House, of Capt. Scobell; and Mountvale, of John E. Scobell, Esq. Coal is largely worked. The living is a vicarage in the diocese of Bath and Wells. Value, £120.* Patron, the Rev. H. Mogg. The church was restored and enlarged in 1824, and again in 1842; comprises nave, aisles, and chancel, with a fine tower; and contains monuments of the 15th century to the Hodges family. There are national schools, and charities £.15.

From The History and Antiquities of the County of Somerset Vol II (1791) p145 by Rev John Collinson:

The church of High-Littleton was appropriated to the abbey of Keynsham in 1324; the name of the abbot then presiding was Nicholas.

The living is a vicarage in the deanery of Redcliff and Bedminster. The King is patron, and the Rev. Thomas Mogg is the present incumbent.

The church is dedicated to the Holy Trinity, and is a small but very handsome structure, rebuilt in 1735, consisting of a nave, chancel, and small aisle on the south side, and a tower at the west end containing three bells

From the Bristol Mirror of Sat 15 Jan 1842 p8 in a report on a meeting of the 'Bath and Wells Diocesan Church Building Society':

35l. towards enlarging High Littleton Church by building a new aisle and gallery

From the Bath Chronicle of Thu 27 Mar 1884 p3:

TENDERS.—The following tenders have been received for rebuilding High Littleton church, Somerset, Messrs Wilson, Willcox and Ames, architects: Brock and Bruce, £2,450; Chancellor, £2,400; Wall and Hook, £2,280; Long, £2,260; Hayward and Wooster, £2,247; Brown, £2,198; Bladwell and Parsons, £2,148.

From the Frome Times of Wed 14 Jan 1885 p3:

High Littleton church has been beautifully restored in the early Perpendicular style, and will very shortly be opened. The architect is Mr. Willcox, of Bath; but, from want of funds, parts of the building have to be left undone for the present—notable, the porch, a side chapel on the north, and the south aisle. The north aisle, nave, chancel, vestry, organ chamber, and heating apparatus are complete; and an effort will be made in the early part of the year to finish the entire church during the summer, To supply what is still needed would amount to £600. The window in the east end (by Mr. Gibbs, of London) is very beautiful, and is the gift of the patron. Another generous subscriber to the restoration fund has also given a nicely designed reredos.

The churchyard extension on the opposite side of the main road dates from 1893. From the Bristol Mercury of 8 Apr 1893 p7, reporting on the Easter Vestry meeting at High Littleton:

A new burial ground has been provided, and is now almost ready for consecration, the necessary funds having been raised by public subscription, The parishioners subscribed freely. Mrs Mogg, of Farrington Gurney, who takes a great interest in the parish, in addition to giving a lych gate, has been a generous contributor. The whole of the work has been carried out by a committee selected by the parishioners, and great credit is due to them for the satisfactory result of their labours. A particularly gratifying feature of the work has been the great help given by Messrs Evans, Chivers, James, and Young, working men, who have not only contributed towards the cost, but have themselves canvassed the whole of the working classes for subscriptions. In this matter also Mr Body has been most indefatigable, sparing neither time nor labour in bringing about a satisfactory result; and in the face of all this it is most inexplicable that there should be any opposition to his reelection as churchwarden.

From the Wells Journal of Thu 13 Apr 1893 p6:
HIGH LITTLETON

A new burial ground for this parish is about to be consecrated.
Mrs. Mogg, of Farrington Gurney, has given a lych gate.

From the Western Daily Press of Thu 7 Sep 1893 p8
MEETING OF MINERS AT HIGH LITTLETON.

Yesterday the miners from Greyfield, Timsbury, and the neighbouring collieries, numbering 500, held a meeting in a field which had been lent by Mr Hedges for the purpose. The Farmborough Brass Band, conducted by Mr C. Viner, was in attendance. Mr G. CRAY, president of the district union, presided, and speaking of the employers' action before the miners came out, said they brought them down as low as they possibly could, to one and two days a week, which meant semi-starvation. He was heartily sorry to see the misery and desperate state other parts the country were in through the lock-out. The masters had not reduced the price of coal to need a reduction ; but they had raised the price considerably in every instance. If the men had to starve they had better starve in sunshine, and not in the dark. He asked them if they meant to yield. (Voices: "No, no, we will stick together.") It was not likely any settlement would be arrived at till after the conference on the 14th inst. . . .

From the Bristol Mercury of Mon 11 Sep 1893 p8:

FETE AT HIGH LITTLETON.

An attractive fête and bazaar in aid of a fund for reducing the heavy parish expenses of High Littleton was opened in the grounds of Kingwell Hall on Saturday afternoon. The funds are required chiefly for expenses connected with the church of Holy Trinity, High Littleton, which seats some 400 people, and is one of the prettiest country churches in Somerset. Some few years ago the structure, with the exception of the tower, was thoroughly restored at a cost of £4000, and the whole of this large sum was soon paid off. A new burial ground was then added, and this cost £220 of which £190 was met by voluntary subscriptions, leaving a debt of £30. The church tower, however, needs restoring, and this is estimated to cost about £500, whilst the schools, which holds 230 children, are full and will have to be enlarged before very long. . . .

From the Wells Journal of Thu 17 Nov 1904 p8:

It has been decided to repair and enlarge the bell cage in High Littleton church tower, to hold six bells, and that three new bells will be added.

From the Somerset Guardian and Radstock Observer of Fri 14 Oct 1938 p13:

WHERE QUAKERS REST IN A PARK
Village Link With Cromwellian Days

The Rev. R. Grosvenor Bartelot, M.A., F.S.A., of Timsbury, whose recent article dealing with the history of the parish of High Littleton (including Hallatrow), was read with great interest in the district, has contributed an article in the current, issue of the High Littleton parish magazine on the little-known history of the Quakers' burial ground at Hallatrow. Mr. Bartelot writes:—

Within what was once the part of Montvale in Hallatrow is a small burial ground, where members of the Friends'

Meeting House, which stands not far away, were formerly buried.

The first record I can find relating to this spot is the following entry in High Littleton Church Register of the parish in which Hallatrow is situated:

“A.D. 1658 7th July, Christian, the wife of Peter Walter, was buried at Hallatrow burying ground.”

The same year also occurs this entry, which shows that persons from a distance were brought here to be buried:

“1658, William West of Keinsham was buried at Hallatrow in the Parrack (Park) 27th December ‘Francis Amor’ Register (sic).”

Amor was the civil registrar appointed in Cromwellian days, when Church registration was taken out of the hands of the clergy. After the Restoration only Churchpeople’s burials were entered in Littleton Parish Register, so that unless the Society of Friends possess records of its own relating to this cemetery, all the names of those lying there are lost, for there are no tombstones visible.

Overgrown and Fenceless

I spent a long time recently examining this burial ground, which is now somewhat overgrown with shrubs and trees and its fences (if it ever had any) have become obliterated, since apparently no burials have taken place for the last century or more.

It would appear that when Richard Langford, Esq. (son of Richard Langford and Sarah Skey, his wife), who was born in 1761, rebuilt Montvale House in 1817, he permanently closed this burial ground which is not far from the front door of his new mansion.

But not only the Society of Friends but all Christian people should always remember with gratitude the kindness of Squire Langford in going to the expense of erecting a handsome monument in the centre of the derelict burial ground in order keep for ever memory the position and extent of this holy ground.

The memorial consists of a square casket, five feet in height with base and mouldings carved in Temple Cloud stone, and surmounted by a beacon-top flaming emblem, such as is now used for a road sign warning motorists of the presence of village schools.

Careful Record Of Its Size

On the west side of the memorial is inscribed the following careful record of the burial ground:

“The Extent of the Quakers’ Burying Ground from the base of this pillar was, on the north and south sides 14 feet. and on the east and west sides 23 feet.”

On the east side is a poem of four stanzas evidently written by Richard Langford, which reveals the fact that though not himself a Quaker, he erected this pillar out of Christian charity and from the deep respect which he felt for the memory of many personal friends whose bodies rest within this funeral sanctuary. All must admire his earnest endeavours to perpetuate their memory.

We are happy to record that his wishes have ever since been carried out, first by the family of his only daughter, Frances, who married John Ustick Scobell, and died September 7th 1891.

Needless to say, the present owner of Montvale House, Mrs. Panes, carefully preserves this pillar, the only memorial still within this humble burial ground.

‘Sombre Pine Trees Shade’

In order to place on record the now also illegible poem, I print it as far as I have been able to decipher it:

Within this tranquil solemn gloom,
Formed by sombre pine trees’ shade
Waiting Jehovah’s final doom,
Remains of Many Friends are laid
Many indeed whom well I knew
Religion’s path most strictly trod
Whose only aim, whose constant view
Was to walk humbly with their God.
What though their path might very much
From that which you and I possess
Shall we their pious ashes touch?
Shall we surviving Friends distress?
No! God forbid! They here shall rest
By me and mine preserved with care,
No earthly power shall e’er molest
Those mortal relics buried here

Richard Langford, 1817

From the Somerset Guardian and Radstock Observer of Fri 26 May 1939 p7:

FOR REFUGEE FUND Dance in High Littleton Church Hall

A successful dance was held in the Church Hall, High Littleton, on Saturday evening, organised by Mrs. E. Vaughan, secretary of the sub-committee of the Women’s Institute, in cooperation with the High Littleton Girls' Club, on behalf of Lord Baldwin's Jewish Refugees Fund.

Music was supplied by Nelson Lewis' dance band, of Camerton, with Mr. F. Nicol as a very capable M.C. The door stewards were Messrs. Stan Howe and E. Vaughan.

The refreshments provided during the evening were generously given by ladies of High Littleton and Hallatrow. The large attendance included a contingent of friends from Timsbury. The tea hostesses were Miss H. Sage, Miss F. Evans and Mrs. G. Maule.

The gratifying sum of just over £6 was cleared as a result of the effort.

From the Somerset Guardian and Radstock Observer of Fri 5 Sep 1952 p7:

HIGH LITTLETON CHURCH ORGAN
RESTORATION
THANKSGIVING

A thanksgiving service for the restoration of High Littleton Parish Church organ took place on Sunday evening, when a large congregation thoroughly enjoyed a recital by the organist, Mr. D. G. Cottle.

It was a little over six months ago that the Church Council was advised by the tuners that restoration of the organ was an urgent necessity, and an appeal was immediately made for £300 to cover the cost,

With donations and other efforts, including a sale of work and a concert, this sum was soon obtained and the work of restoration made possible. The short service of thanksgiving was conducted by the vicar (the Rev. A. Reynolds) and the selections on the organ by Mr. Cottle included "Melodic Enchante" (Arthur F. Tate), "Chelsea Fayre" (R. Goss- Custard) "Cradle Song" (R. G. Hailing), "Jesu, joy of man's desiring" (Bach. arranged by Myra Hess) and "Bishops March" (J. Tucker). The late Mr. James Tucker, who also composed another March, was organist at High Littleton Parish Church from 1866 until 1907.

During that period he raised a considerable sum towards the cost of the present organ with his magic lantern. He gave shows in several of the surrounding villages. The balance required to purchase the organ was then donated by the late Mr. Alfred Evans, of Poulton. The organ was last renovated in 1899.

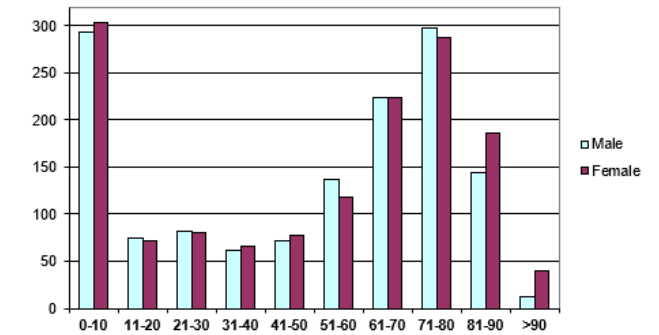

During Sunday's Service, Mr. Fred Smart effectively sang "The Lost Chord."

For this special occasion the church was tastefully decorated with flowers by ladies of the congregation, and these were later distributed to sick and aged members of the congregation who were unable to attend that service.

The ladies responsible were heartily thanked by the vicar for their services.

The church is part of a benefice with Holy Trinity, Poulton and St John the Baptist, Farrington Gurney.

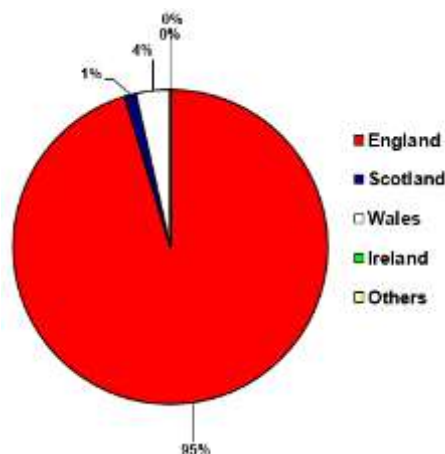

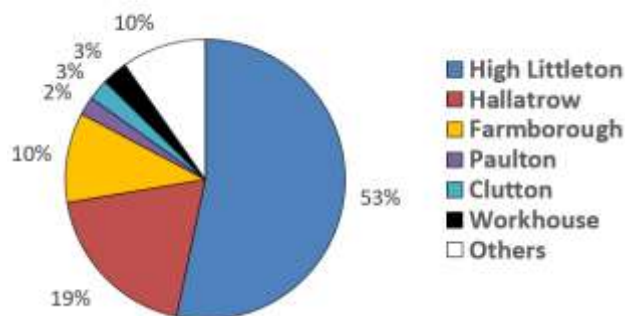

Occupants

The age profile has 20% aged under 11, and 34% aged over 70.

For the period 1739-1991 about 22% of those buried have their names on memorials, a level typical for parishes in the Bath area.

In the 19th century (from 1813), the abodes are usually just the names of the village or hamlet. Some places such as 'Rotcombe' and 'New Road' are sometimes qualified by either 'High Littleton' or 'Farmborough'. In the period 1813-1912 72% were from High Littleton, including Hallatrow, with 10% from Farmborough. There are only a few percent from other neighbouring places, and there were 14 from Bath and 6 from Bristol.

As would be expected for a rural community, the vast majority of those buried were born in England.

Notable People

John George Jones (1844-1930)

From the Hampshire Times of Fri 23 May 1930 p14: Vice-Admiral John George Jones, retired, who died at his residence, High Littleton House, near Bristol, last weekend, had well over 40 year's service in the Royal Navy. Born June 9, 1844, and entering the Navy in August, 1857, he became a sub-lieutenant in June, 1863, while serving in the screw frigate Immortalite, of 35 guns, on the North America and West Indies Station, and was promoted to lieutenant two years later. He was first lieutenant of the Charybdis, screw corvette, and while in her served during the operations in the Lingie and Lukat rivers against Malaya in the Straits of Malacca in 1874, receiving the Perak medal and clasp.

Captain Jones took command in January 1890, of the Indian troopship Malabar. Three year's sea duty in this ship was followed by his selection as Captain-in-Charge at Ascension, which was then administered by the Admiralty. He held this post from May, 1893, to March, 1896, and soon after his return he was appointed captain-in-charge of the steam reserve and of the naval establishments at Sydney for one year. He retired in 1899, made a rear-admiral on the retired list 1 August, 1900, and vice-admiral in February, 1905.

George Treweeke Scobell (1785-1869)

Son of Dr Peter Edward Scobell, MD and Hannah née Sandford.

From the Illustrated London News of Sat 5 Jun 1869 p23:

Captain Scobell, of Kingwell, Somerset, formerly M.P. for Bath, whose death has just occurred, was born in 1785, and entered the Royal Navy when only twelve years of age. He served at first on the coast of North America, and subsequently in the expedition to Copenhagen, under Sir Hyde Parker and Lord Nelson, in the blockade of Cadiz, and in the Channel fleet. He was made Lieutenant in 1804 and Commander in 1812. He was M.P. for Bath from 1851 to 1857, and was High Sheriff of Somerset in 1863. Captain Scobell, on retiring from Parliament, through failing health, devoted himself to country pursuits. He was a liberal landlord, and was one of the first to advocate the allotment system at a time when it was by no means popular.

Previous Surveys

The names from monumental inscriptions were recorded by Michael L Browning in 1991 and updated in 1992. The result is available at the 'High Littleton and Hallatrow History and Parish Records' website. These do not have the locations of memorials.

Billiongraves.com has 592 headstone records and 532 images. The documentation is limited to memorials in the extension and date from June 2020. The location of a grave is given by a pin on a map and pictures of a few nearby memorials are shown.

Grave Photographic Resource

(gravestonphotos.com) has 34 grave and 121 person records for the churchyard and a further 397 grave and 800 person records for the churchyard extension. Again, the documentation is limited to memorials and it doesn't have a map.

(For the period from 1739, the current survey has 3,744 burial records, 923 names on memorials and 523 memorials.)

The baptismal entries for 1634- give both the birth and baptismal dates as well as the parents' names.

Within the last few decades there are a number of names on memorials without a corresponding entry in the burial register.

| | | in -"returning" his sword, ran the point of it about an inch or more into his comrades thigh. At the termination of the general drill on Friday, the gallant commander, Col. Sir Wm. Miles was unhorsed by a trooper, whose horse had bolted. The colonel fell heavily, notwithstanding which he soon recovered his seat and led the regiment into the Market-place, where they were dismissed. On Saturday, we learn that Capt. Haviland's horse fell with him, at Farrington Gurney; and in the afternoon of the same day an accident of the most deplorable character resulted in the death of Corporal James Blinman, of the Ston Easton troop. The deceased, who was riding a high-spirited young horse was returning from Wells with the other members of his troop, when his horse, which had run away with him on several previous occasions, bolted at a furious pace, and becoming quite unmanage-able, at length threw him with such violence that he died the next morning. An inquest was held at the residence of the deceased the Manor Farn, Hallatrow, by Mr. Bruges Fry, on Thursday. . . . The melancholy event threw a deep gloom over the whole hamlet of Hallatrow, the deceased having been universally respected and beloved. Amongst his neighbours he was open-hearted and generous to a degree that will cause his loss to be deeply lamented by many, whist amongst the members of his troop his warm and genial temperament and manly qualities made him so endeared to his comrades that they felt his loss almost as deeply as a family bereavement. Owing to these circumstances, a wish was generally expressed by the members of the corps that he should be buried with military honours, and hearing on Thursday that the family had given their consent to this course, hasty preparations were made for the Ston Easton troop to attend the funeral yesterday. So many visitors had not been seen in Hallatrow for many years. The road in the neighbourhood of the farm was lined with |

He had been ailing for several days, but beyond his weight of years there did not seem to be any reason for apprehending a fatal result immediately. He died however quite tranquilly on Monday night or rather Tuesday morning. The deceased, George Treweeke Scobell, who was born in December 1785, was the second son of the late Peter Edward Scobell, M.D., by Hannah, only daughter of John Esq.. of Penzance, and his wife Hannah, daughter of George Treweeke, Esq. He entered the navy March 1798, when he was little more than twelve years old, and served at first on the coast of North America, and subsequently in the expedition to Copenhagen under Sir Hyde Parker and Lord Nelson, the blockade of Cadiz, and in the Channel Fleet. He was made lieutenant in 1804 and commander in 1812, and at the conclusion of the war found himself like many other officers of both services out of employment. After remaining many years on half-pay he retired in 1843 from the navy under the Royal warrant with the rank of post captain. He married in 1818 Hester, youngest daughter and co-heiress of Charles Savage, Esq., of Midsomer Norton. In 1851 on the accession of Lord Ashley to |

At the general election in the ensuing year he was successful in retaining his seat against another Conservative, Mr. Whateley, Q.C., though he was only second on the poll, the first place being filled by the late Mr. Phinn. All three candidates are now dead. At the dissolution in 1857 he retired from Parliament on account of advancing years and failing health, and henceforth took little part in public life except as a magistrate for Somersetshire, and in 1863 as its High Sheriff. It was not the fortune of this journal agree with him in political matters, but apart from these there was nothing in him to censure and often much to commend, while in them if he could not win assent he ever deserved and obtained general esteem and respect as an upright and straightforward gentleman. Though he has outlived almost all his contemporaries and many of a younger generation his death will not be heard of without sincere regret. Also on the same page: And but now we read of the death at a very advanced age of Captain George Scobell, veteran naval officer and Somersetshire magistrate, who succeeded Lord Shaftesbury the representation of Bath in 1851, and held the seat till his retirement in 1857 in consequence of health. Though he survived for so many years he has never, we believe, emerged from his retirement, but has lived in the tranquil enjoyment of the respect and good will of all with whom he was brought into |

| | | | Baptised on 19 Jun 1813 at St Andrew's, Holborn, London: Thomas Bridges, son of Thomas Bridges & Mariana Elizabeth Anne Hughes, of 3 Millman Street, father's occupation: barrister at law, said to be born 15 Sep 1812. There was a court case in 1813 at the Old Bailey in which two individuals were charged with stealing items (worth >£10) from the house of Thomas Bridges Hughes at 3 Great Millman street. The accused were found guilty and sentenced to death, the prosecutor recommending mercy as no violence to any person or property had been used and the firearms, while loaded, were inoperable as the primer and flints had been removed. An affidavit dated 14 Jul 1815 concerning the handwriting of the will of Thomas Bridges Hughes, late of the Middle Temple, barrister at law, suggests that at that time he had died. Annexed was a short handwritten will dated 23 May 1809. From the burial register: Thomas Bridges Hughes, aged 14, of Farmborough, was buried on 8 Oct 1826. The death of Mariana Elizabeth A Hughes, aged 88, was registered 1869/Q2 Newport Pagnell. The connection with High Littleton is unclear. |

THIS TABLET IS ERECTED IN AFFECTIONATE REMEMBRANCE BY THE MEMBERS OF THE STON EASTON TROOP |  From the Bristol Mercury 8-Oct-1864 p8: SHOCKING DEATH OF A NORTH SOMERSET YEOMANRY TROOPER. MILITARY FUNERAL AT HALLATROW. The annual eight days' drill of the North Somerset Yeomanry Cavalry, which terminated at Wells on Saturday, was singularly prolific of accidents. On the day of muster Capt. Helbert, of the Bath troop, was thrown from his horse. and so injured that he could not join his troop for a day or two, During the drill one of the troopers, in -"returning" his sword, ran the point of it about an inch or more into his comrade's thigh. At the termination of the general drill on Friday, the gallant commander, Col. Sir Wm. Miles was unhorsed by a trooper, whose horse had bolted. The Colonel fell |

| | | heavily, notwithstanding which he soon recovered his seat and led the regiment into the Market - place, where they were dismissed On Saturday, we learn that Capt. Haviland's horse fell with him, at Farrington Gurney; and in the afternoon of the same day an accident of the most deplorable character resulted in the death of Corporal James Blinman, of the Ston Easton troop. The deceased, who was riding a high-spirited young horse was returning from Wells with the other members of his troop, when his horse, which had run sway with him on several previous occasions, bolted at a furious pace, and becoming quite unmanageable, at length threw him with such violence that he died the next morning. An inquest was held at the residence of the deceased the Manor Farm, Hallatrow, by Mr. Bruges Fry, on Thursday. . . . Deceased was about 42 years of age, and unmarried. . . . It was decided that a procession should walk from Hallatrow to High Littleton Church, the place of burial. The members of the Ston Easton troop taking part in the escort were drawn up two deep with open ranks in front of the house, the officers, Captain J. Hippisley, Lieut. Smith, and others being present. . . . | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |

Cemetery

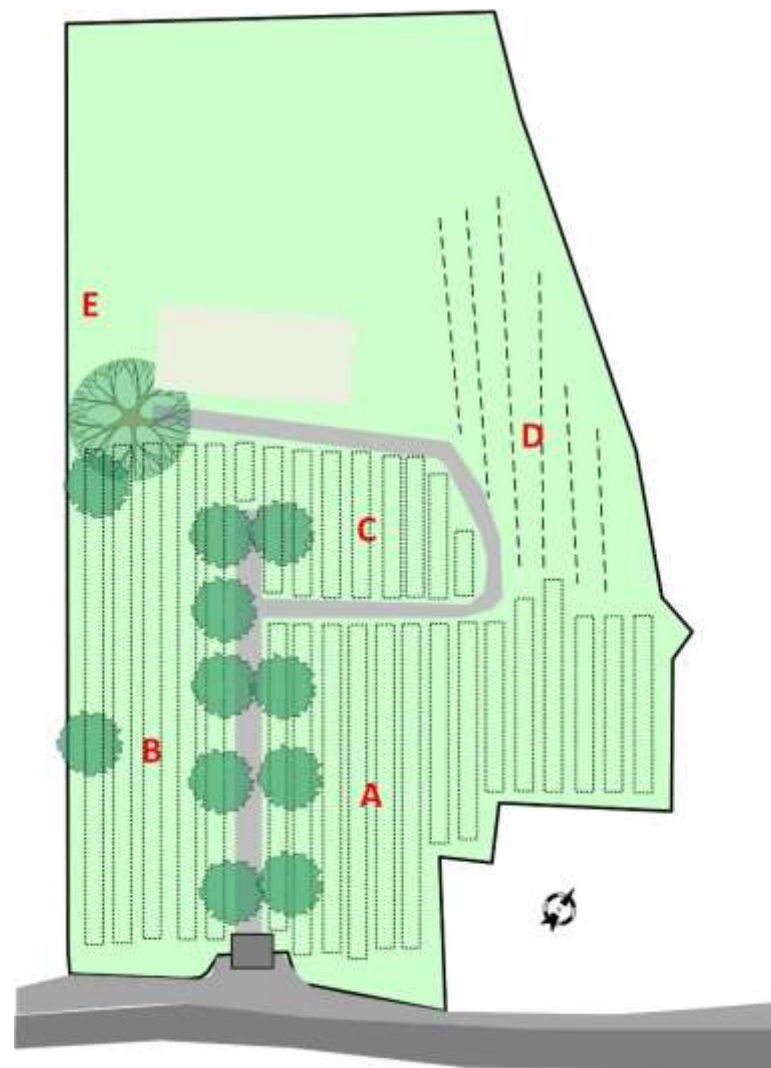

Layout

The cemetery is roughly rectangular in shape with a house and its grounds intruding in the south-east corner. For the most part, it is laid out in a grid. There is a lych gate with a path running north-south with yew trees at intervals on both sides. Along this path, on the right-hand side, before it ends with some memorials, the path goes east and loops around a group of memorials. In approximately the centre of the ground is a rectangular area which has been set aside for growing wild flowers.

The main axis is about 35 degrees off a north-south alignment.

The numbering scheme adopted is based on section, row and plot with the following sections:

- A in the south-eastern part of the ground with rows running north-south, the first eight of these having about 29 plots. Toward the east the rows are shorter. The memorials are conventional mid-20th-century ones with low headstones with kerbstones or crosses on plinths with kerbstones. There are a few late 20th-century small headstones on a base.
- B in the south-western part of the ground with rows running north-south. There are only a few dozen memorials in a mainly sparse arrangement.
- C North of section A comprising 8 rows with (except for the easternmost row), eight plots. It is bounded by a path.
- D in the eastern part of the ground and has seven rows of late 20th and early 21st century (mainly) small headstones on bases.
- E a line of about 50 plaques on the western wall of the ground.
- F a row of about 20 square plaques on the ground adjacent to the path.
