Under a headline of "Two Killed and Eighteen Injured In Bath Tram Disaster" "... The tramcars were both bound for Combe Down, and the disaster occurred when the first ran away down the slope near Oldfield Council Schools and crashed with terrific force into the second, some 300 yards lower down the road. The ends of both conveyances were completely wrecked and interlocked in a mass of twisted metal. According to the driver of the runaway tramcar, the disaster was due to tar having melted on the rails, owing to the intensely warm weather, and causing the wheels of his vehicle to skid on the acute bend near Hayesfield Park. The passenger who succumbed soon after reaching hospital was:- Mrs. Ethelreda Louisa Pessell, wife of Mr. Robert Pessell,

		BATH CHEF'S DEATH. M. Bernard of the Empire Hotel. After a short illness, the death has occurred this week of M. Adolf Bernard, the chef of the Empire Hotel, which he had served for a considerable period, coming to Bath during the war after a short time at the Criterion, Piccadilly Circus. He was a great favourite, both among the staff and visitors at the Empire Hotel, and was an excellent chef and of a most obliging disposition. He was rather weak in the chest, and a chill he contracted last week had serious consequences, pneumonia and pleurisy developing and quickly carrying him off. He was last Saturday removed from the hotel to his residence in Milton Avenue. M. Bernard lost his wife last August, and his only son, who was in the French Army of Occupation in Germany, lost his life by drowning while endeavouring to rescue a comrade. The funeral takes place to-day, there being a service at St. John's Roman Catholic Church at half-past ten. There was a report of the funeral in the Bath Weekly Chronicle and Herald of Sat 12 Jan 1929 p23 which includes a reference to 'Mr. René Duris (his brother-in-law, from Paris)'.

We allude to the death of Mr. S. V. Pieroni. Though the declining years of his life were passed in comparative obscurity, Mr. Pieroni when in his prime was a man who enjoyed considerable popularity in the city. An Italian by birth, an artist by nature, he was remarkably clever as a sculptor, and there are residents of Bath who possess choice examples of his skill. The Pieroni vase in the Victoria Park was a gift from his studio. Possessed of a fine figure and striking face, he was a distinct personality, and old Bathonians can recall a triumphal procession through the street, in which Mr. Pieroni represented Garibaldi, and was loudly cheered. He became deeply attached to the land of his adoption, and we believe that in 1869 he was one of the earliest to join the ranks of English Volunteers.” Pieroni's Fountain - An Italian Immigrant's Search for Respectability in Victorian Bath by Colin Fisher (Akeman Press). Effects under £3,000. From NUI Galway's Landed Estate database: "The Shees were a Kilkenny family of ancient lineage who married into a number of other significant landowning families in the south and west of Ireland. This branch is descended from the marriage, in the eighteenth century, of Elizabeth Power of Gardenmorris and John O'Shee of Sheestown. In 1851, their grandson, John Power O'Shee of Gardenmorris, was among the principal lessors in the parishes of Kilbarrymeadan and Monksland, barony of Decies-without-Drum, county Waterford. In the 1870s, his son Nicholas's estate amounted to almost 5000 acres in county Waterford as well as over 2400 acres in county Kilkenny." For Mary Power Ronanye (1781-1859) see grave N473.

		The death of Bridget Power, aged 82, was registered 1901/Q4 Bath. From the NUI Galway's Landed Estate Database: "The Ronayne family were located in county Cork from at least the early 17th century. Philip Ronayne was prominent in Cork city at the end of the 17th century. Documents in the Sarsfield Papers document the Ronayne estate at Doughcloyne, Carrigaline, Rochestown, Great Island, Kinsale, Youghal and in other locations at the end of the 17th century and early 18th century. Some of their property passed by marriage to the Sarsfield family. At the time of Griffith's Valuation Patrick Ronayne held land in the parish of Clonmel, barony of Barrymore and Patrick Ronan held land in the parish of Macloneigh, barony of West Muskerry. In April 1861 the estate of Patrick Ronayne at Inshinisingane, barony of West Muskerry was advertised for sale. This estate amounted to 504 acres and was held on a lease to John Ronayne, as trustee for Thomas Browne, from Michael Cox dated 1800. In the 1870s Patrick Ronayne of Berry Hill, Queenstown, owned 219 acres and John Ronayne of Ardsallagh House, Youghal, owned 323 acres in county Cork. The estate of Robert Power Ronayne at Pike Park, county Cork and D'Loughtane, county Waterford, including the mansion house of D'Loughtane, were advertised for sale in June and October 1851. He had been among the principal lessors in the parishes of Kinsalebeg, barony of Decies-within-Drum and Kilrossanty, barony of Decies-without-Drum, , at the time of Griffith's Valuation. Robert P. Ronayne emigrated to Australia. Land at Ballycurriginny, barony of Imokilly, the estate of Thomas Ronayne, was advertised for sale in 1872. The original lease was from Anne Beecher of Cork city to Uniacke Ronayne. The house Ronayne's Court was included in the sale of Edward Robinson's premises in Cork city and suburbs in August 1850."

Names	Inscription	Notes
		The most remarkable procession that Bath has seen for some time took place on Saturday, when over 100 workmates of Mr. John Smith, aged 21, employed at the Corsham quarries, followed his remains from the Roman Catholic Church of St. Alphege, Oldfield Park, to Perrymead Cemetery. In the gleaming sunshine the men, many carrying their hats, walked in front of the hearse, the large car bearing the family mourners, and the private car of Mr. W. Nix, who was representing Major Minnis, the commanding officer. The long procession walked along Junction Road into Lower Oldfield Park, along the Lower Bristol Road, through Widcombe, and thence to the cemetery. Considerable interest was aroused by the long trail of men. Some wore dark suits, some black, with black ties, others wore brown, fawn, grey flannel, and even sports coats. The men looked tired and hot by the time they had climbed the hill to Perrymead. There was a fine tribute to a departed workmate. A bystander said to our representative: "You don't often see that in Bath, do you? But they do it in Wales." When the cemetery was reached, the men ranged themselves as a guard of honour. Smith died on Wednesday, of double pneumonia. He had been living only a week in his lodgings at 50, Lower Bristol Road. Father J. Dolan, parish priest, officiated at both church and cemetery.
