Introduction

The church of St Mary the Virgin, Ston Easton

From the Imperial Gazetteer of England and Wales 1870-72 by John Marius Wilson:

STONE-EASTON, a parish, with a village, in Clutton district, Somerset; under the Mendip hills, 4½ miles W by S of Radstock r. station. It has a post-office under Bath. Acres, 1,374. Real property, £3,399. Pop., 431. Houses, 94. The manor, with S. E. House, belongs to J. Hippisley, Esq. The living is a vicarage, united with Chewton-Mendip, in the diocese of Bath and Wells. Value, £120. Patron, R. P. Philpott, Esq. The church is ancient. There are a parochial school and some charities.

From The History and Antiquities of Somersetshire by John Collinson Vol II (1791) p155:

36 Henry VIII, the manor of Stone-Easton, with its appurtenances, was granted to John Hippisley, esq; whose son and heir John Hippisley, 17 Eliz. is certified to hold the same, together with the manor of Camely, and twenty messuages and lands in Camely, Temple-Cloud, and Hinton-Blewet, by knight's service. From him descended Preston Hippisley, esq; lord of this manor, whose daughter and sole heir conveyed it with many other manors in this neighbourhood in marriage to John Coxe, of Wiltshire, esq; ancestor of Henry Hippisley Coxe, esq; the present possessor, who has a very elegant mansion, with fine plantations on the north side of the parish church.

The church consists of a nave, chancel, and north aisle, with a tower at the west end containing five bells. The arch which divides the chancel from the nave is Saxon, having zigzag mouldings. . . .

In the church-yard, which is surrounded by larch-trees, are two remarkable old yew-trees, of astonishing girth.

(36 Henry VIII is 1544-1545. Other commentators credit the Normans with the chancel arch and the history of the village (see below) recounts how the arch was taken down stone by stone and then reconstructed during the 1891 restoration.)

From a notice in the Clifton Society of Thu 2 Apr 1891 p9:

STON EASTON CHURCH, SOMERSET

This beautiful little Parish Church will be RE-OPENED, after full and perfect Restoration, under the able care of Sir Arthur Blomfield, A.R.A., on THURSDAY, 9th April.

Holy Communion 8.30 a.m. Morning Prayer 11.45, when the sermon will be preached by the Right Hon. and Rev. The LORD BISHOP OF BATH & WELLS. Evening Prayer at 6.30, Sermon by Rev. H. K. BOLDERO, Rector of Grittleton, Wiltshire.

The Offertory on each occasion will be in Aid of a Fund for a New Organ. HENRY P. LEAKEY, Vicar.

Ston Easton is 2½ miles from Hallatrow Station, G.W.R., 2½ from Chilcompton Station, S. & D.R., and by Road from Bath via Corston and Farmborough.

The 10.25 train from Bath stops at Chilcompton on this occasion.

From the Western Daily Press of Fri 10 Apr 1891 p3:
RE-OPENING OF STON EASTON CHURCH.

After complete restoration, which has been some time in progress, the Church of Ston Easton was yesterday re-opened for service. The work has been thoroughly accomplished by the contractors, Messrs Thompson, of Peterborough, under the direction of Sir George Blomfield. The interior was cleared of the galleries and square deal pews with which it was disfigured, leaving only the bare walls of the fabric. The nave has now been paved with wooden blocks, and open seats of oak have been substituted for the old deal pews. The Norman arch of the chancel has been cleared of the yellow colouring that had been an eyesore, and openings have been pierced on with side of it, thus allowing a better view to command of the chancel. A new vestry and organ chamber have been added, as also a heating apparatus and handsome lamps. The church has been enriched by several gifts, amongst which are the following:—Two stained glass windows in the side aisles, Mrs Hooper; east window, Mrs Ivan Hippisley; altar super frontal, Miss Katie Savory; font, Miss Georgina Hippisley; lectern, Mrs Naish and Miss Burfield.

Other similar accounts of the re-opening appeared in various local newspapers. That from the Bath Chronicle of Thu 16 Apr 1891 p5 elaborates on the form of the church and its architectural features:

The church, dedicated to St. Mary the Virgin, is an ancient edifice of stone, in the Perpendicular style, and consists of a chancel, nave and three bays and side aisles, and an embattled western tower, with pinnacles, containing five bells. It had fallen into a most dilapidated state, but has now undergone the most thorough and complete restoration. It is an interesting and pretty little church in every way, but its best architectural feature is the richly moulded Norman chancel arch. This has been taken down and rebuilt in consequence of its having gone some inches out of the perpendicular; the old stones were every one most carefully retained, numbered and restored exactly to their original position in the arch, and a most clever and beautiful work is now presented. At the same time the columns and arches of the north side of the nave were taken down and rebuilt in the same careful manner. In carrying out this work a great improvement was made in opening out two squints or hagioscopes on each side of the chancel arch, a discovery that would have delighted the eyes of the venerated John Henry Parker. Formerly all the windows had been robbed of their old tracery and filled in with what was entirely out of character and ugly. All these have now been removed and true Somersetshire Perpendicular tracery substituted, after the pattern of a portion of one of them still remaining, fortunately, in one of the side windows. The whole of the roofs have been removed and where necessary the old timbers replaced with new, the nave roof raised to its original pitch and covered with lead, and the chancel roof with suitable Staffordshire tiles. In the north aisle were found the remains of a very rich oak ribbed roof, which gave the key note, as it were, to the whole of the remainder, namely, an open roof over the nave, and a coved oak ceiling in the chancel, divided into panels by richly moulded ribs with carved bosses at the intersections, which is quite characteristic of this part of the country. A new vestry and organ chamber have been built on the south side of the chancel, which in every way is a great improvement.

Three stained glass memorial windows have already been provided. In the south aisle "Christ blessing little children," and "The raising of Lazarus;" this first presented by Mrs. Hooper in remembrance of her late father and mother; the second by Mrs. Hooper in loving memory of the late Walter Busfield, 68th Light Infantry; and then the fine east chancel window, with four lights, given by Mrs. Ivan Hippisley in memory of her late husband, the subjects being the birth of St. John Baptist, St John in the wilderness, the baptism of our Lord by St. John, and then his imprisonment, whilst Herodius stands looking defiantly at the Holy Martyr.

The entire cost of the restoration is said to be considerably over £3,000—two-thirds of which were the generous gift of Mrs. Ivan Hippisley.

(The 'John Henry Parker' referred to was an English archaeologist, writer on architecture and publisher. He was one of the main advocates for the restoration of ecclesiastical buildings.)

In 1893 an organ was installed, this being donated by Mrs Hippisley of Ston Easton Park and Pulteney Street, Bath (Bath Chronicle Thu 7-Sep-1893 p3).

The Hippisley family were lords of the manor of Ston Easton from about the time of the Dissolution of the Monasteries, as well as having property elsewhere. In 1956 the house and grounds were sold to pay death duties. After restorations successively by Stephen Clark, William Rees-Mogg and Peter & Christine Smedley, it became a 20-bedroom hotel. This four-star hotel closed in Jun 2020 due to the pandemic-induced downturn in business, all its staff being made redundant, and it was offered for sale by the administrators (Bath Chronicle 24 Jun 2020). Planning permission was obtained from Mendip District Council to convert the main building into three residential units. (Shepton Mallet Nub News 26 Aug 2020).

The Story of Our Village compiled by Ston Easton Women's Institute (1953) is available online.

The parish is now in the benefice of Chewton Mendip with Emborough, Litton and Ston Easton.

Of those buried, about 20% were aged under 11 and 36% aged over 70.

The majority (85%) of those buried in the period 1813-1912 were from Ston Easton with only a few from neighbouring villages and towns. 10 individuals died at Clutton workhouse.

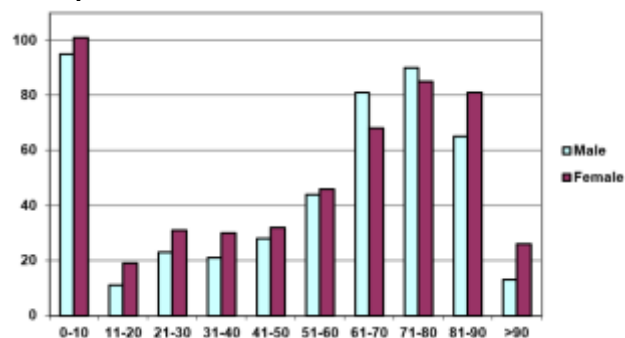

Curiously there are no records prior to 1813, this despite The Story of Our Village compiled by Ston Easton Women's Institute (1953) stating that 'The register dates back to 1572, and the first pages are quite illegible with the exception of a few dates - e.g. 1573, 1578.'

The register was neglected in the period 1966-1968 with a page of 8 entries having 7 of them blank. Thus an entry in 1986 has 'in husband's grave' but there is no burial register entry for him in 1968.

There is only one reference in the burial register to a burial location, this for a burial 'in husband's grave (100)', this giving no hint as to the numbering scheme.

The register for 1944-1993 has some water-damaged pages with one entry illegible. There are about twenty names that appear on memorials but have no corresponding entry in the burial register.

Ston Easton - Memorial Inscriptions

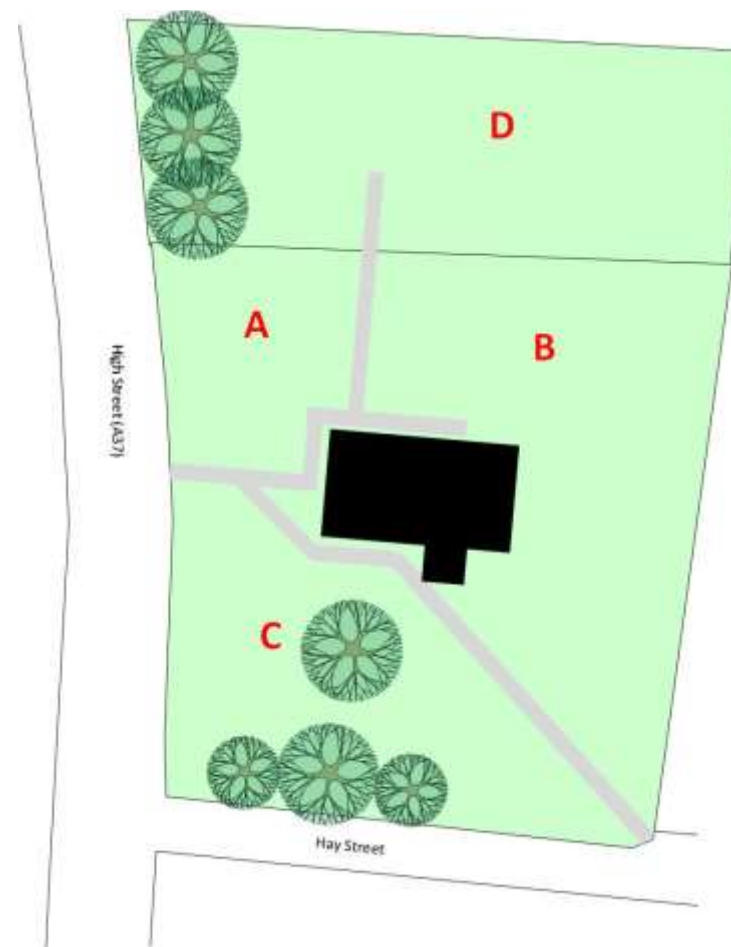

Layout

In the absence of an existing plan a numbering scheme based on the division of the churchyard into sections has been devised.

This has the following sections:

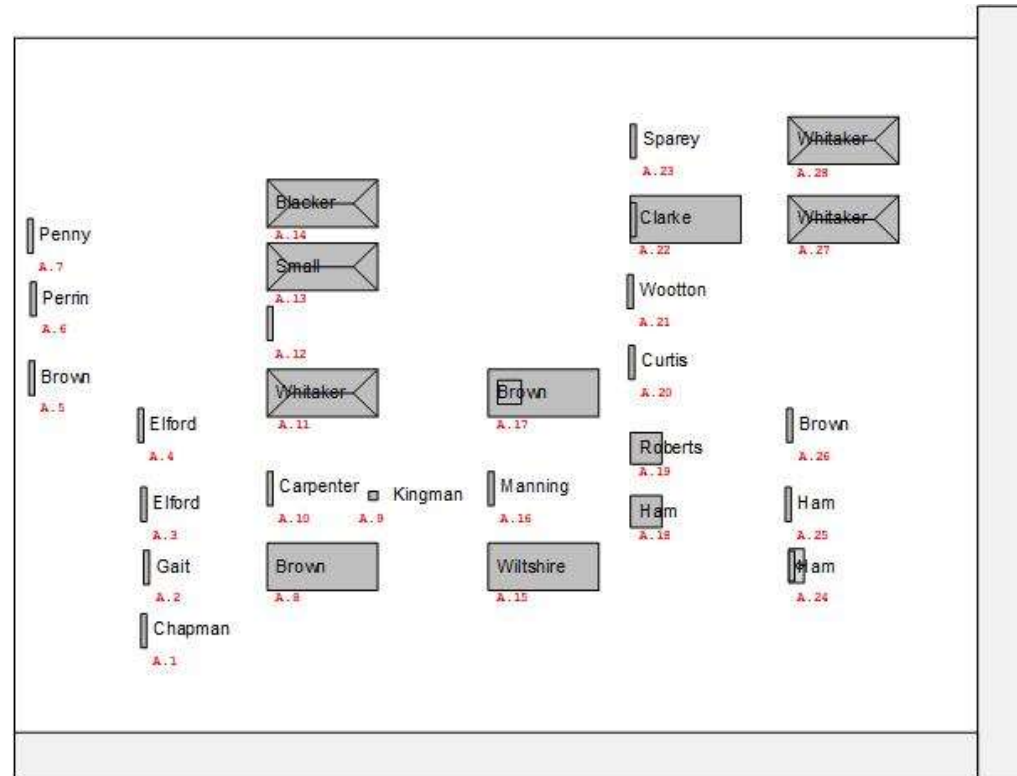

- A the north-western part of the churchyard bounded by the western wall and two paths
- B the eastern part of the churchyard containing some 19th century memorials but the majority are 20th century ones arranged in rows along the eastern side
- C the southern part of the churchyard with only a couple of dozen memorials and two large trees
- D a 20th century extension to the churchyard with memorials arranged in a grid. Access is via a gate in the churchyard's northern wall.

For sections B and D, where the memorials are arranged in a grid, a row number is used. For Sections A and C as well as the sparser areas of section D, the plot identifiers are sequential numbers.

Section B

This north-easterly part of the main churchyard has memorials in the following groups:

- Four old memorials by the church's south-western corner
- Two isolated memorials by the south-eastern corner of the church
- Four cremation plaques from the 1980s and later by the southwestern corner of the church
- A grid arrangement of memorials by the eastern wall, the majority of which are in three rows

The numbering scheme uses a section, row, plot scheme for the five most easterly rows, starting at row 1 by the eastern wall.

The sparser memorials to the west are given a 'row' of 6 and are numbered sequentially. Other groups of memorials are assigned arbitrary 'rows' to group them together.

At the time he passed away and for the last 30 years he was a tenant on Commander Hippisley's estate at Home Farm, Ston Easton. Previous to that he farmed at Hinton Blewett. Mr James was a maker of Cheddar cheese on a considerable scale, but was probably best known as vice-president of the Christmas Fat Stock show at Messrs Blinman and Miles, Farrington Gurney. He had taken many cups and awards as a grazier. Of late years he had grazed a very neat type of Polled Angus for the fatstock show, but previously relied on the Shorthorns typical of the district. Mr Mark James was genial, kindly man and a credit to the farming industry. He was a loyal member the National Farmers' Union and Justice of the Peace.
