Introduction

The church of St James, Cameley

From the Imperial Gazetteer of England and Wales (1870-72) by John Marius Wilson

CAMELEY, a parish in Clutton district, Somerset; 5½ miles WNW of Radstock r. station. It contains Temple Cloud village, with post office under Bristol. Acres, 1,633. Real property, £3,808. Pop., 526. Houses, 102. Bath stone is quarried. The living is a rectory in the diocese of Bath and Wells. Value, £256.* Patron, J. Hippisley, Esq. The church is ancient. There are a national school and charities £21.

At the front of the burial register 1813-1902:

October 1819 - a new gallery in Cameley Church was built by Charles Lovell by Contract for £57:10.- of which sum the Society for promoting the building and enlarging of Churches contributed £30. Sir J. C. Hippisley Bar^t £10:10.- and Tho^s Williams, Rector, the Remainder, who also paid some other small expences attending it.

The third pillar near the singing gallery was afterwards added for greater security at the Expence of the Parish. The following Notice was required by the above Society to be affixed to the Gallery, which was affixed for several Weeks.

“Notice is hereby given that 30 additional sittings have been obtained by the Erection of this Gallery, the whole of which are free and unappropriated for ever, in consequence of a Grant of £30 from the Society for promoting the Enlargement and building of Churches and Chapels.”

From The Western Times of Sat 25 Mar 1854 p3 in a report in proceeding in Parliament:

Mr. KNATCHBULL presented a petition from Cameley, Somerset, against the sale of intoxicating liquors on Sundays.

From the Taunton Courier of Wed 24 Mar 1869 p5:

John Flower, 25, and Henry House, 28, coal miners, were indicted for stealing 3 cwt. of lead, fixed to the parish church at Cameley, the property of the Rev. Henry Styles Savory and others, on the 1st of January. — Mr Hooper for the prosecution; Mr Carter for the defence.— The case was a very weak one, and Mr Carter having made a most humorous speech on behalf of the prisoners, the jury acquitted them, without waiting for his Lordship’s summing up.

From the Shepton Mallet Journal of Fri 20 Jan 1899 p7:

DURING the gale on Friday, considerable damage was done to the roof of Cameley Church by one of the pinnacles of the tower being blown off, and falling on the lead completely smashing a large beam, one of the ramparts of the roof, which prevented any service being held on Sunday.

From the Shepton Mallet Journal of Fri 24 Sep 1909 p2:

PRESENTATION.—On the occasion of the Misses Rees-Mogg leaving Cholwell House, the inhabitants of Cameley wishing to show their appreciation of the kind and voluntary work done by them in the parish for so many years, it was unanimously decided to present to Miss Catherine Rees-Mogg and Miss Mace L. Rees-Mogg tokens of the high esteem and affection in which they are held. . . .

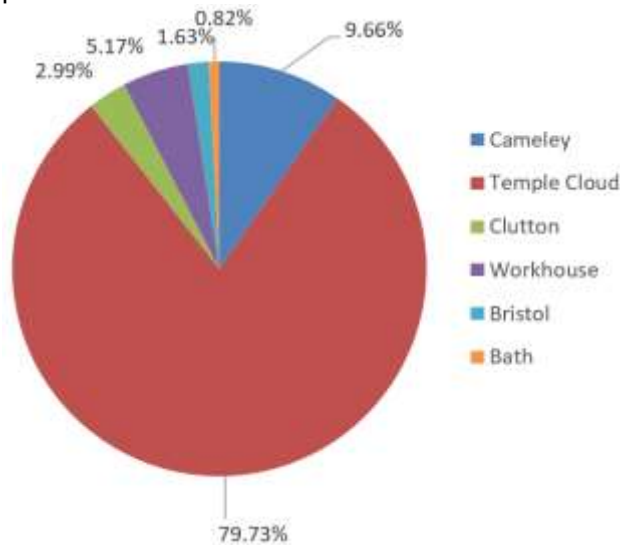

Temple Cloud developed as a result of being on the turnpike road from Bristol to Shepton Mallet. In 1916 some residents petitioned for a church in Temple Cloud as Cameley parish church was 1km away and

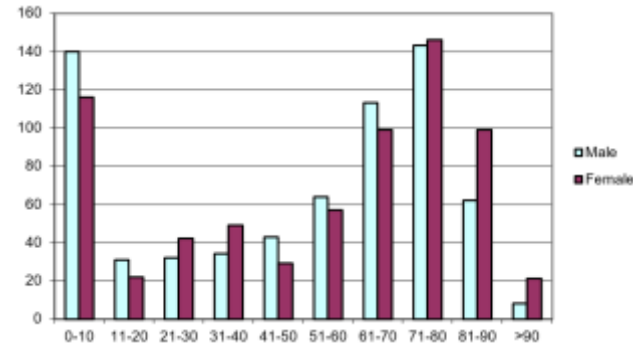

Cameley - Memorial Inscriptions

St Barnabas church was built. The parish is now part of the benefice of 'Clutton with Cameley, Bishop Sutton and Stowey' within the archdeaconry of Bath.

For the period from 1813, when abodes are given in the register, about 10% were from Cameley, 80% from Temple Cloud, 3% from Clutton and 5% from the Clutton Union workhouse. The workhouse operated from 1837 to 1930 after which it was renamed to Cambrook House and designated as a 'public assistance institution'. The workhouse had its own death register but no burial ground of its own, the bodies being returned to the relevant parish for burial.

The age profile from 1813 has 19% aged under 11 and 35% aged over 70.

Numbers of burials by age band

As expected for a rural community, of the about 300 entries for which a birth location has been established, over 98% were born in England.

For the period from 1661 to present about a quarter of those buried have their names on memorial in the churchyard.

The register from 1902 is with the parish.

Mag., ii, 31) there is a deed by "Cadwallader Jones, son and heir of Richard Jones, late of London, merchant, deceased," to Sir Robert Jeffreys releasing all claims to the manor of Ley. As he died a bankrupt, no will of this first Cadwallader Jones was proved, but it seems clear that he left at least one son for the will (P. C. C. Fane, 88) of another Cadwallader Jones was proved in 1693. This second Cadwallader therein described himself as "of Camely, co. Somerset, esq.", but makes mention of his interest in "the Barton of Greenham in the parish of Ash Brittle, co. Somerset." He refers also to his sons and to his wife, Elizabeth (the marriage license, 1677, is in Jewers Bath and Wells Marriage Licenses) but supplies no other clew for the present enquiry. It is a fair presumption, however, that the second Cadwallader was a kinsman of Cadwallader Jones of Virginia.” There are various family trees that include Cadwallder Jones giving a birth year of circa 1653.
