Introduction

The church of St Benedict, Stratton-on-the-Fosse

Downside Abbey's local parish is based at St Benedict's Church, Stratton-on-the-Fosse. The church was built to the designs of Charles and Joseph Hansom and completed in 1857.

From the Catholic Telegraph of Sat 9 May 1857 p7 col b:

Few perhaps, save visitors to St. Georgy's are acquainted with the picturesque little village of Stratton. Situated on the old Roman Foss, and perched amid the Mendip Hills, it affords many a pleasant trip and delightful view to the occasional travellers. Its Catholic population is but small, and very widely scattered, and moreover, exceedingly poor, their means barely sufficing for their sustenance. Their spiritual welfare has been attended to by the vigilance of the Benedictine Fathers of Downside, who, with the true spirit of their holy founder, have gained many a wandering soul from the mist of heresy. The present indefatigable pastor of the mission (Father Alphonsus Morrall) has for a long time endeavoured to collect sufficient funds to build a small church; and on Tuesday, the 28th of April, the execution of his long cherished hope was commenced by the laying of the foundation stone.

An opportune change in the weather resulted in a very favourable day. The ceremony was performed by the Right Rev. Dr. Clifford, the newly consecrated Bishop of Clifton, and the stone was laid by Lord Arundell of Wardour. The procession, composed of students of the college, the Benedictine Fathers in their cowls, and some of the neighbouring priests, formed at the college, and slowly would its way to the site of the proposed church. The whole scene brought strongly to our mind the old times of the ages of faith, when so many sainted predecessors of those holy Religious peopled our then Catholic isle: for the moment we thought that those happy times had returned, so like was the spectacle to what we have pictured of those old Benedictine processions. The beauty of the ceremony is apparent to those who only read it from the Ritual; but when we witnessed, under the blue vault of the heavens, the rich vestments, the fragrant incense, the deep murmur of prayer, the rich tones of the old Gregorian music, chanted by the hooded followers of St. Benedict, the effect was thrilling.

The Bishop having blessed the site of the altar, and the stones prepared for the occasion proceeded to lay one of them, upon which are carved five crosses; and under which was inserted a plate of lead, with the following inscription:—

“In fide Jesu Christi collocavit lapidem istum primarium in honorem Sanctissimi Patris Benedicti, Illustrissimus et Reverendissimus

Dominus, Sominus Gulielmus Clifford, Episcopus Cliftoniensis, died xxxviii. Aprilis, A.D., MDCCCLVII; Sanctissimo Pio Papa Nino; Revdo. Adm. Domno Palcido Barchall, Præsidi Generali Congregationis Anglo Benedictinæ; Revdo Adm. Domno. Norberto Sweeney, Priore Monasterii St. Gregorii Magni, et Revdo. Domno. Alphosi Maria Morrall, Pastore Congregationis annexæ.”

The translation is as follows:—

“In the faith of Jesus Christ, the Right Honourable and Right Reverend Lord William Clifford, Bishop of Clifton, laid this first stone, in honour of our most holy Father St. Benedict, on the 28th day of April, A.D. 1857; his Holiness Pius the Ninth being Pope; Very Rev. Dom. Placid Burchall, President General of the English Benedictine Congregation; Very Rev. Dom. Norbert Sweeney, Prior of the Monastery of St. Gregory; Rev. Alphonsus Mary Morrall, Pastor of the Congregation annexed.”

After which Lord Arundell of Wardour laid the other stone, upon which was beautifully carved his initial and coronet, together with an inscription as follows:—

“In fide Jesu Christi collocavit lapidem istum in honorem Sanctissimi Patroni sui almi Patris Benedicto, Illustrissimus Dominus, Dominus Henricus Benedictus Arundell Baro de Wardour, et Come Sacti Romani Imperii, died xxviii Aprilis, A.D. MDCCCLVII ; Sancta Pater Benedicte, intercede pro eo.”

“In the faith of Jesus Christ, the Right Honourable Lord, Lord Henry Benedict Arundell, Baron of Wardour and Count of the Holy Roman Empire, laid this stone, in honour of his most holy Patron the benign Father Benedict, on the 28th of April, A.D. 1857.—Holy Father Benedict intercede for him.”

After the sprinkling of the whole foundations with holy water, and the announcing of the Usual

Indulgences by the Very Canon Neve, the ceremony, which lasted more than one hour, concluded, and the procession then returned to the college.

In the evening the occasion was celebrated by a tea party, at which about a hundred and twenty were present. The expenses were defrayed by the members of the congregation, and the proceeds are to contribute to the funds for the new church. The school room was very tastefully decorated with evergreens, and the arrangements were made in a style worthy of a larger entertainment.

The church to be erected (C. and J. Hansom, Esqrs., Clifton, architects) is but a small one, intended for parochial functions, and likewise to give the members of the congregation suitable instructions, which can hardly be attained at the college chapel. We are extremely sorry to learn that the much revered pastor has only sufficient means for the erection of the shell; so that the flooring, and even plastering, as yet remain without any funds for their completion; and we feel assured that Father Alphonsus Morrall will be happy to receive any donation which the poverty of the congregation may induce the charitable public to remit. A Mass is to be said every month for five years for all subscribers, and we believe two extra Masses for the private intentions of those benefactors who may contribute a pound. Any subscription will, no doubt, be most thankfully received and as gratefully acknowledged.

(At around the same time Charles and Joseph Hansom designed the mortuary chapel at Perrymead, Bath and the adjacent Eyre Chapel.)

From The Freeman's Journal of Wed 25 Nov 1857 p4 col a:

ST. BENEDICT'S CHURCH, STRATTON. An exceedingly short space of time occupied in the completion, renders auspicious the opening of St. Benedict's. Stratton. The foundation-stone was laid on the 28th of April, and on the 12th inst. the holy sacrifice for the first time offered up within its walls. The church is intended for the use of the congregation that has hitherto attended the College Chapel, and for the performance of all pastoral duties, and it will thus be to St. Gregory's what St. Margaret's was to Westminster, and St. Benedict's, at Glastonbury, to the Abbey Church. The day chosen for the opening was particularly appropriate, being the Eve of the Festival of All Saints of the Order of St. Benedict. It placed the church under the patronage of those who were the predecessors of the Benedictine Fathers of St. Gregory. — The church was completely filled by a respectable congregation, many of whom, we understand, came from a distance to take part in the ceremonies. The procession formed in the schoolroom, and proceeded round the exterior to the porch, and thence up the nave, during which the psalm "Quam dilecta" was chanted. Pontifical high mass was sung by the Hon. and Rev. Dr. Clifford, the bishop of the diocese. The Right Rev. Dr. Morris, O.S.B., after the gospel preached a very eloquent and impressive sermon. He took his text from Exodus XII. 14—"And this day shall be a memorial to you; and you shall keep it a feast to the Lord in your generations with an everlasting observance."—Weekly Register.

From the Bath Chronicle of Thu 24 Jun 1909 p5 in a report on the visit of the Prince and Princess of Wales to the area:

The Rector of Stratton, the Rev. J. J. Coleman, and a member of the Benedictine Order, representing the Abbot of Downside, were also presented to the Prince.

From the Bath Chronicle and Herald of Sat 11 Jul 1931 p21:

The police were busy at Stratton-on-the-Fosse on Sunday evening following the discovery of damage to two offertory boxes in the church of St. Benedict, the village Roman Catholic Church.

Both boxes were empty, and it is surmised that the robbery took place about 4 p.m when a Sister saw a man, whom she described to the police, in the church.

The thief probably got little for his pains since he had been unable to open the more important box, which is made of steel and dates from an occasion some years ago when a thief opened its wooden predecessor.

From the history of the church, land was set aside for burials after the monks arrived in 1814 and prior to the church opening in 1857, the first record of a burial being in 1819.

Part of the graveyard has a series of memorials for Carmelite sisters. The memorials have, at the top 'J.M J.T' which stands for 'Jesus, Mary + Joseph, Teresa', the 'Teresa' referring to St Teresa of Ávila (a 16th century nun who, with St John of the Cross, reformed the Carmelites). The same memorials have 'O.D.C.' which stands for 'Order of the Discalced Carmelites of the Blessed Virgin Mary of Mount Carmel', one of the branches of the Carmelite order. The 'discalced' means barefoot, and comes from the injunction to the members of the branch of the order against wearing covered shoes. The parish of SS Joseph & Theresa, Wells, a part of the Catholic Diocese of Clifton, states that it is joined through time by the nuns of the Carmelite Order whose chapel it now uses as its parish church and this is why it is dedicated to St Joseph and especially St Teresa of Avila. The church is in Chamberlain Street. There was also St Benedict's Convent at Stratton-on-the-Fosse.

Three headstones for nuns in row C have on their western faces references to priests. It is possible that the headstones were reused after it was decided on a standard metal memorials for those from the Abbey.

The graveyard is the resting place of various nobility with origins in continental Europe, notably:

- von Hügel, members of the family of an Austrian count of the Holy Roman Empire (Heiliges Römisches Reich)
- de Salis, members of the family of a French count
- Mattei, a Maltese count

Of the 871 burial register entries, about 60% of the names appear on memorials. Other than nuns and clergy, those buried are mainly parishioners from Stratton-on-the-Fosse and nearby places that fall within the parish and many are people who either worked on the estate or at the school.

Bristol Record Office 35721/Box 25 had a document entitled Register of the Bodies buried in the Vaults of the Church of Prior Park College which has 4 pages 3 of which have a list of burials and the fourth is a map of the arrangement of vaults beneath Prior Park Chapel. The box has not been found at Bristol Record Office but there is a microfiche (FCNC/RCS/1/2).

The first page of the Register has "The bodies for 1,2,3,5,6,7,11 were removed to Downside June 8, 1856; No 9 to Bath, Nos 4, 8, 10 to Midford Castle Church."

The burial register transcript for St Benedict's has the burial of Mary Ann Thornley in 1847 and Henry Ibbot Field F X in 1849 (no dates given) and both were re-buried in the same plot.

The age profile has 15% aged under 11 and 48% aged over 70.

The place of birth of those buried is overwhelmingly England (89%).

Burial Registers

The book St Benedict's Stratton on the Fosse Somerset A History by Frances Daniels, Gerald Brine and Dom Aidan Bellenger (2014) contains, in Appendix 9, a plan of the graveyard and a transcript of the entries in the burial register with, for some, the locations. It also has, in a section on the parish registers, examples of the early burial records and the later pre-printed register which has the same form as that for Perrymead, Bath with the entries in Latin.

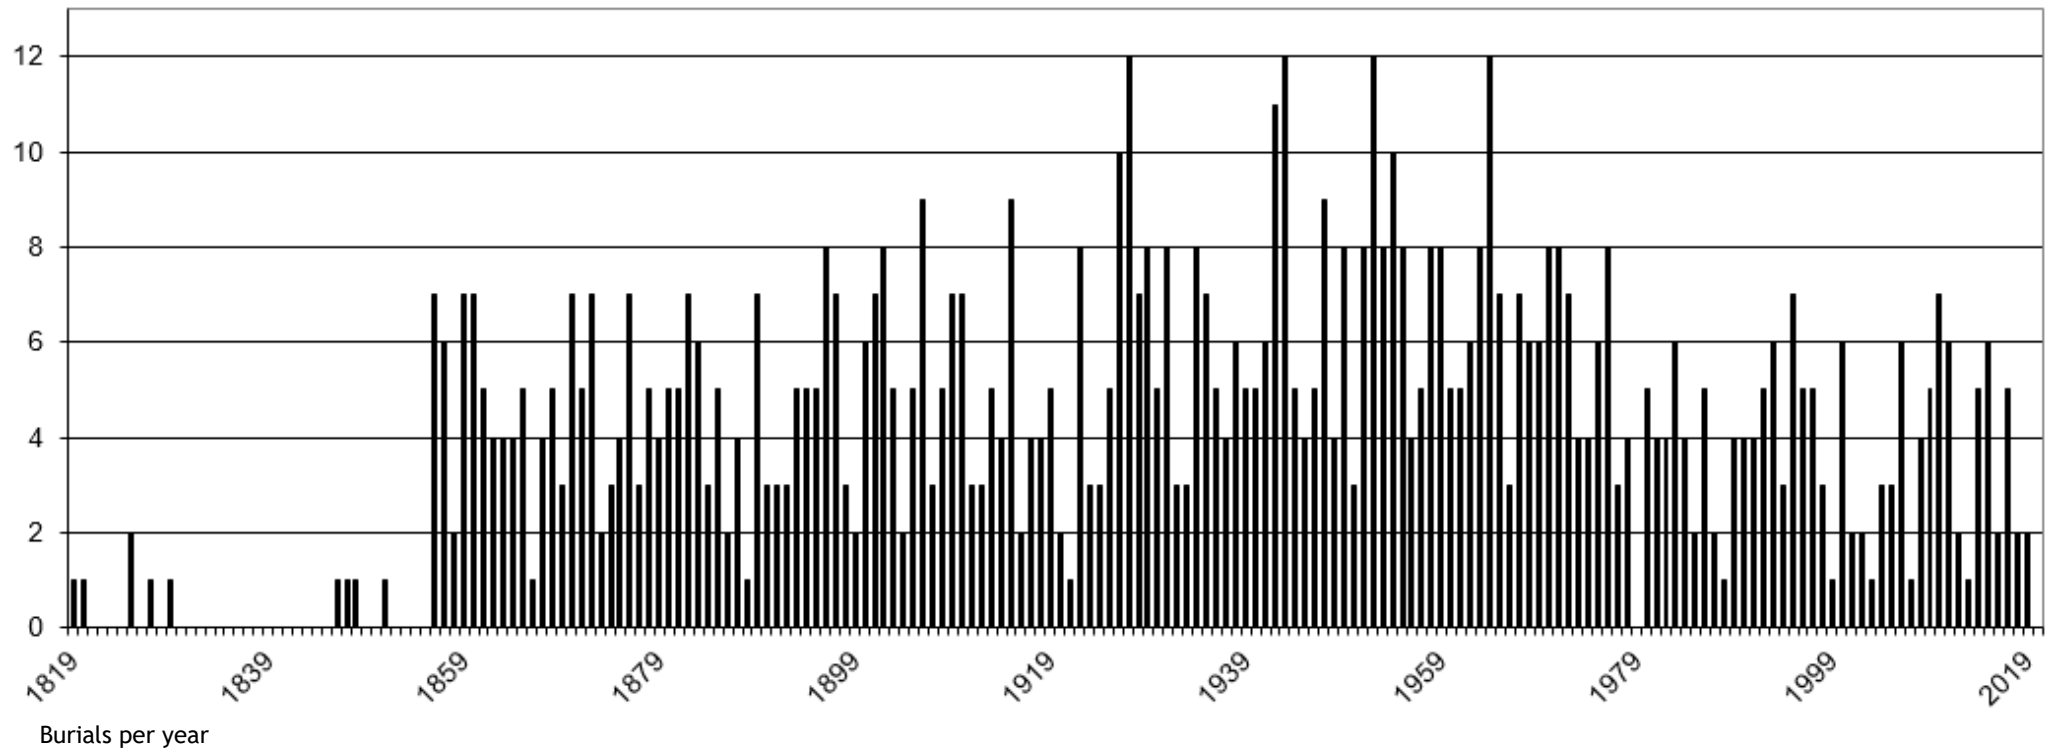

A record of the inscriptions on the surviving memorials was made by the late Sir Meryn Medlycott (1947-2021) in 2004, this omitting any memorials after 1960. This survey deliberately omitted a map on the grounds that "family historians ... have little interest in plans". The recording was not of the inscriptions but the salient facts such as name, date of death and age.

The numbering scheme in the previous survey used a row letter and plot number scheme with the rows running south to north A at the eastern side up to Z on the western side. This omitted more recent plots in the south-eastern area. To rationalise this the whole area has been split into two; the northern section has row A-S and the southern section AA-FF. Row A-F run north-south and rows G-S run east-west. Rows AA-DD run north-south.

A curiosity is that three headstones have the names of nuns on the eastern faces and the names of two priests and a student on the western faces. Burials within the monastery grounds now use metal crosses and it's possible that some headstones were replaced by metal crosses and re-used for the nuns.

Baron Hügel in early life served in the Austrian army, and took part in the operations against Napoleon in 1814 down to the occupation of Paris by the allies. His military career closed with the campaign against Naples, under General Frimont, in which he took an active part. In 1824 he returned to Vienna, and thenceforth devoted himself to natural science, for which he had manifested early tastes. In 1831, having fitted out a ship with all the appliances necessary for a scientific voyage round the world, Baron Hügel set sail from Toulon on the 2nd of May on an expedition which lasted six years. In the course of these voyages and travels he visited extensive regions of Africa, Asia, and Australia, making splendid additions to natural history science, especially from Australia. Baron Hügel was an enthusiastic horticulturalist, and was the founder member of the Horticultural Society of Vienna, He resided for several years at Florence, though always taking an active interest and part in the scientific affairs of the Austrian Capital. From Baron Friedrich Von Hügel and the Modernist Crisis in England by Lawrence F. 		The Real Academia de la Historia (Madrid) has a history of the family based on Cristóbal de Murrieta y Mello born at Santurce (Basque country) in 1790. This has (in translation): Born into a family with few economic resources, he emigrated to colonial Peru accompanied by his brother Francisco Luciano, six years his senior. Once in America the brothers introduced themselves into commercial life, in the first place in the service of other business people and then founding their own trading house. The marriage of Francisco Luciano with la criolla María Ana Ortiz y García Lemoine, whose family were linked with the mineral trade, guaranteed the economic position of the Murrieta brothers. Cristóbal, for his part, married María del Carmen del Campo y Urrutia, whose family had gained a fortune in Chile. From this marriage were born five sons: José, Cristóbal, Mariano, Adriano and Carmen, all born in London with the exception of the eldest son who was to become the first marqués de Santurce. (‘La criolla’ is used here in the true sense of ‘creole’ which was commonly applied to nationals of the colonial power, eg to distinguish españoles criollos (people born in the colonies from Spanish ancestors) from españoles peninsulares (those born in the Iberian Peninsula, ie Spain).) In the 1861 census at 11 Palace Gardens, Westminster: Mariano de Murrieta, aged 28, unmarried, Spanish General merchant, born at St Pancras, London, Joseph de Murrieta, aged 27, son (!), Spanish General merchant, born at St Pancras, Adrian de Murrieta, aged 18, son (!), clerk [to] Spanish General merchant, born at St Pancras, Carmen de Murrieta, aged 13, daughter (!), born at Brighton, Cristobal de la Quintano, aged 31, nephew, Spanish General merchant, born at Biscay, Spain, Juan de la Quintano, aged 23, nephew, civil engineer, born at Biscay, Spain, and six servants. In the 1881 census at Southover Hall, Burwash (Sussex): Mariano de Murrieta, aged 48, foreign banker & merchant, born in London, sons Francisco, aged 17, born in London, and Cristobal, aged 15, born in London, Pedro de Galindez, aged 25, visitor, commercial clerk, born in Spain, Joaquin de Galindez, aged 17, commercial clerk, born in Spain, and five servants. In the Post Office London Directory 1885 at 18 Pembridge square: Murrieta Mariano de

		From the Daily Post (Hobart, Tas) of Wed 9 Feb 1910 p5; OBITUARIES FRANCIS QUINLAN. LONDON, Tuesday. The death is announced of Francis Quinlan, the Victorian County Court judge. His death was due to heart failure and occurred at Clevedon, in Somerset. From The Advocate (Melbourne) of Sat 12 Feb 1910 p22: DEATH OF EX JUDGE QUINLAN The death, in England, of Mr. Francis Quintan, formerly County Court judge in Victoria, is reported in a cable message The late Mr. Quinlan, who was born in Clonmel, Ireland, in 1834, was educated for the law, but emigrated to Victoria in 1853 without completing his legal studies, having been attracted by the gold discoveries. In 1857 he was appointed chairman of the "progress committee". Organised for the purpose of securing local self-government for the people, and on the establishment of municipal institutions he was elected first chairman of the Dunolly council. He was made a territorial magistrate in 1858, and, resuming his legal studies, was called to the bar in 1863. He made two attempts to enter Parliament as a Liberal freetrader, in 1839 and 1864, when he stood for Dalhousie, but was defeated on each occasion. In the early "eighties" he was appointed County Court judge. Since his retirement on a pension, about thirteen years ago, he had resided at Clevedon, in Somerset, or Bexhill-on-Sea, England.

St Benedict's, Stratton-on-the-Fosse - Memorial Inscriptions

Names	Inscriptions	Notes
		This tiny, quickly executed portrait was painted by Savage sometime after 1940. We know this to be the case as although the portrait is not dated, it is clearly copied from a photograph of Horne which was taken in the garden of 'Barnside', a large seventeenth-century house on Chilkwell Street in Glastonbury, the same year.
