Introduction

The church of St Vigor, Stratton-on-the-Fosse

From A Topographical Dictionary of England, published by Samuel Lewis (London, 1848):
STRATTON-ON-THE-FOSS (St. Vigor), a parish, in the union of Shepton-Mallet, hundred of Kilmersdon, E. division of Somerset, 6 miles (N. N. E.) from Shepton-Mallet; containing 464 inhabitants. The parish comprises 1108a. 1r. 37p.; the surface is agreeably diversified with hill, dale, and woodland, and the soil consists chiefly of a red loamy earth, producing excellent pasture for cattle. The village is situated on the ancient Fosse-way, now part of the road from Bath to Shepton Mallet. Stone is quarried for building, and for repairing roads; a coal-mine is in operation, and ironstone and marl are found in abundance. The Bath market is principally supplied with butter from the dairy-farms in the neighbourhood. The living is a discharged rectory, valued in the king's books at £9.

11. 5½., and in the patronage of the Crown, in right of the duchy of Cornwall: the tithes have been commuted for £60, and the glebe contains about 40 acres.

The Anglican Church of St Vigor in Stratton-on-the-Fosse has been designated as a Grade I listed building. It reputedly dates from the years following the Conquest through Saxon and Norman times with the Manor of Stratton ultimately passing around 1204 to a Norman family called Sancto Vigore, who came originally from the village of Saint-Vigor-le-Grand, Normandy. It is assumed that the church was dedicated by the Sancto Vigore family during a time of rebuilding from a possible simple Saxon or Norman church. The church is thought to have undergone minor work in 14th century, much rebuilt 15th and 16th centuries with further rebuilding in late 18th century and restoration in the 19th century. The chancel is said to have been rebuilt in 1765 and the north aisle in 1782.

The Somerset Standard (of Sat 6 Nov 1886 p8) reported on a paper contributed to the Shepton Mallet Natural History Society by Dom Ethelbert Horne, of Downside, on St Vigor, Bishop of Bayeux "to whom the parish church of Stratton-on-the-Fosse is dedicated".

From the Western Gazette of Fri 4 Jun 1880:

STRATTON-ON-THE-FOSSE

CHURCH RESTORATION.—The venerable and interesting church of this parish has just been restored by Messrs, Merrick and Son, of Glastonbury, at a cost of £600. Stratton is a parish lying a short distance to the east of the Mendip Hills, and contains, according to the last census, 345 inhabitants. The interior of the old edifice now presents a pleasing and inviting appearance. The architect was Mr. E. B. Ferrey, of London. The re-opening services after the restoration were held on Sunday.

Benjamin Ferrey (1810-1880) studied architecture under Augustus Charles Pugin and alongside Pugin's son Augustus Welby Northmore Pugin. He was diocesan architect for the diocese of Bath & Wells from 1841 and was responsible for the restoration of various churches in the area. His son, Benjamin Edmund Ferrey (1845-1900), was also an architect.

From The Central Somerset Gazette of Fri 23 May 1930:

INTERESTING RELIC OF GEORGE IV.

The Bishop of Bath and Wells has collated the Rev. T. C. Ibbotson, curate of St. James's, Taunton, to the rectory of Stratton-on-the-Fosse with Holcombe, near Bath. Stratton church shares with Fulbourne, in Cambridgeshire, the distinction of being the only churches in England dedicated to St. Vigor. This Gaulish saint appears to have acquired his connection with Stratton-on-the-Fosse by reason of that manor having been bestowed by the Conqueror upon Geoffrey, Bishop of Coutances, not far from Bayeux, who bequeathed his property in Somerset to his French relatives (says the "Guardian"). Oddly enough, some hundred and fifty years after Bishop Geoffrey's death the manor of Stratton was owned by a William Thomas de Sancti Vigore. The organ in Stratton-on-the-Fosse church has had a curious history. It was originally made for George IV. for the Brighton Pavilion, but after his death it was bought for use in the old chapel of Downside Abbey.

There it remained until 1903, when the new Downside was finished, and was then bought by Stratton church. The original Norman church, which has an apsidal chancel, was much altered in the early Perpendicular period, but the existing chancel is relatively modern.

The name Vigor or Vigore in a slightly varied form is well known locally.

St. Vigor's Church forms a joint benefice with St. John's in nearby Chilcompton, and falls within the archdeaconry of Bath.

From Primitive Sun Dials or Scratch Dials by Dom Ethelbert Horne (Taunton, 1917):

91. (1) This dial is situated on the s.w. corner of the nave, on a quoin stone. It is 7 feet from the ground, the noonline is 3 inches in length, and the stylehole is 1½ inches in depth. The aspect is s. by 3° w. Type 3.

The mass line in this dial is sharp and distinct, and made at a different time from the other lines.

92. (2) A second dial is at the entrance to the s. porch, on the w. side. The height is 3 feet 3 inches from the ground, the noonline 3½ inches in length, and the stylehole ¾ of an inch in depth and about ½ an inch in diameter. The aspect is s. by 5° w. Type 3.

Issue 1

93. (3) A third dial is on a buttress between the S. porch and the E. end of the nave. It is 5 feet 1 inch from the ground, the radius of the outer circle is 4 inches, and the stylehole is 2 inches deep and ½ an inch in diameter. The aspect is S. by 5° W. November 3d, 1913.

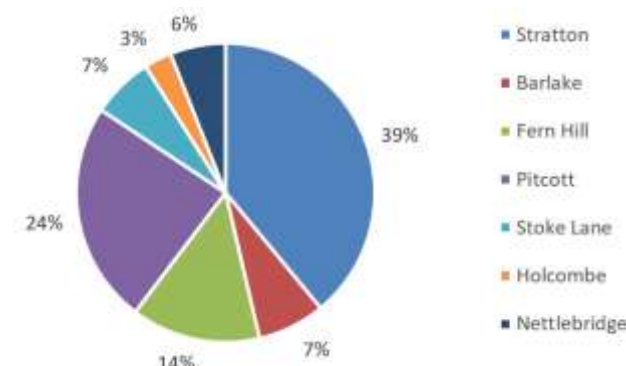

No hour line can be seen on this ancient and badly worn dial. Outside the stylehole, at a distance of 4 inches, are the remains of two circles, one within the other, with ¾ of an inch space between them.

(Dom Ethelbert Horne (1858-1952) was a Benedictine monk at Downside Abbey. In addition to his book on scratch dials he wrote a monograph on Somerset holy wells and was also involved in the archaeology of Glastonbury Abbey.)

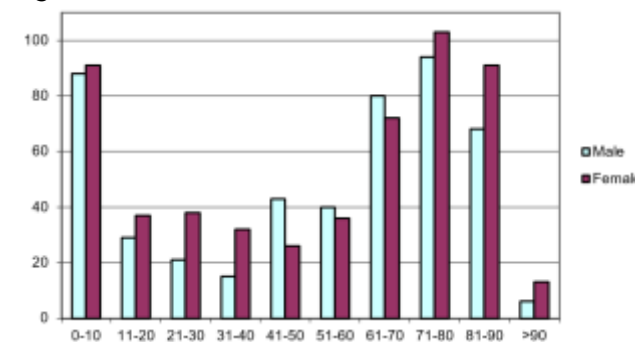

The scratch dial on the southern wall.

The abode in the register shows that the occupants came mainly from various places in and around Stratton.

The age profile has 17.5% aged under 11 and 36.7% aged over 70.

Numbering Scheme

The burial ground has been divided into the following areas:

- S south and east of the church, a small number of memorials with numbers assigned in sequence
- W west and south of the church, a small number of memorials with numbers assigned in sequence
- N north of the church with rows is memorials. The identifiers use section letter, row letter and plot number. The plot numbers start at 1 at the northern end.

Acknowledgements

I am grateful to Rev Stephen Mills, curate, for facilitating the photographing of the register and the internal memorials.

The post-2006 register is with the parish. In Feb 2020, this had 42 entries.

The register for 1783-1812 has pre-printed pages with columns for number, name, when buried, age and where buried. Entries are numbered until 1799, resuming in 1808. Ages were not entered consist-

Layout

On the southern side of the church are some isolated old tombs, including some chest/altar tombs.

On the north side are long rows of memorials. In the north-eastern part are four rows parallel to the eastern wall. In the north-western part are three rows parallel to the western wall. South of these rows are some older isolated memorials.

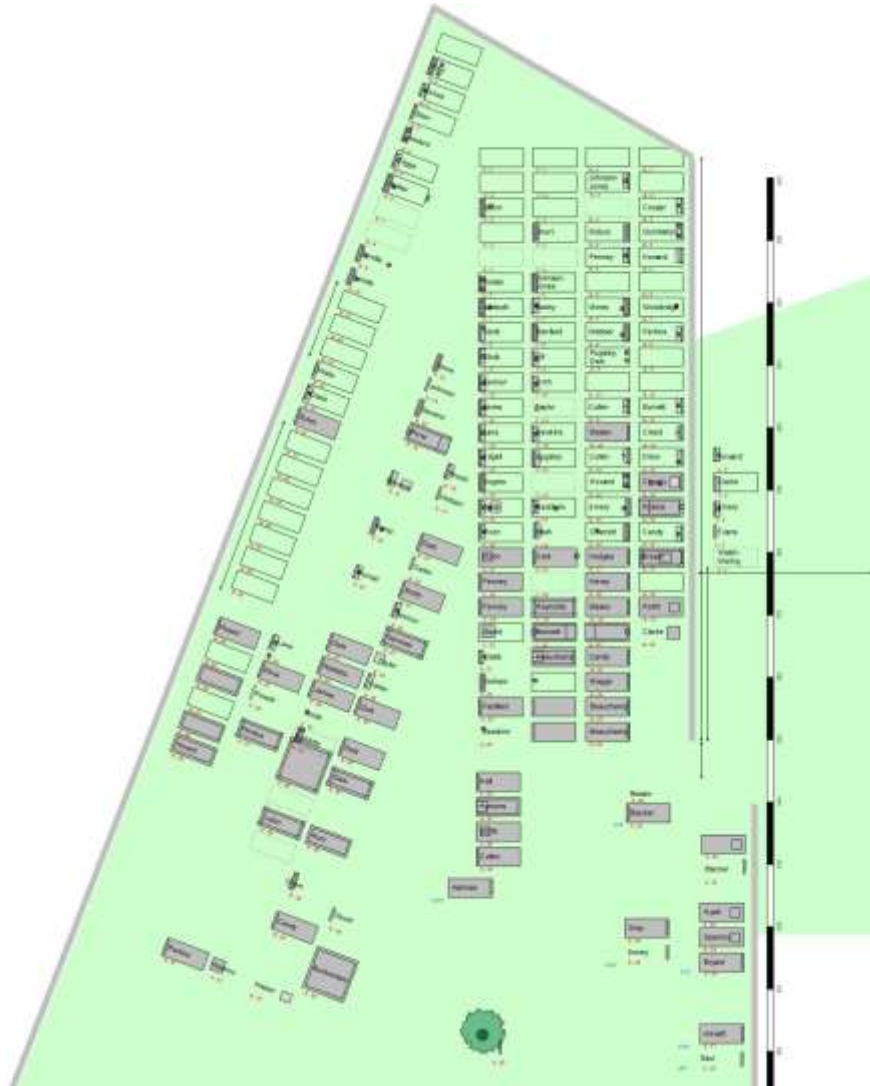

There is an extension to the graveyard on the north-eastern side.

From The Somerset Standard of 5 Mar 1920 p3:                      CHILCOMPTON MR. GEO. EDWARD CLARKE, a well-known resident, passed away on Thursday morning in last week. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clarke of Holcombe. The death was the result of an accident which had occurred the preceding Monday at Gurney Slade. Mr. Clarke was riding a motor-bike through the village, and ran into a cart at the bottom of Gurney Slade Hill. The cart was standing still at the time of the accident. Mr. Clarke met with internal injuries, which resulted in his death. The inquest was held at the residence, and after an exhaustive enquiry as to the cause of the accident and his subsequent death, a verdict of accidental death was returned. Mr. Clarke was in his 49th year. The funeral took place at St. Vigor's Church, Stratton-on-the-Fosse, on Monday afternoon. The great bell of the Abbey was tolled, a rare honour for a Protestant. The whole of the working staff of the College, many of the Fathers of the Abbey, and very many of the inhabitants of the village and surrounding places, including Holcombe and Chilcompton, were present. . . . The death of Amy Clarke, aged 84, was registered 1955/Q2 Norton.

Lakin, Headmaster of the C. of E. Schools, Stratton-on-the-Fosse, took place at the parish church of St. Vigor's, all classes attending the funeral and filling the church. The cortege was met at the gate by the Rector, the Rev. Hepworth Thwaites, and the vicar of Downside, the Rev. H. Robinson, and a full surpliced choir. Lining the walk to the church porch were children from deceased's school, and also from the Roman Catholic school of St. Benedict. Mr Lakin, in addition to his duties as organist, choirmaster, and secretary of the Church Council, worked with the Rector as official lay reader and conducted the services on alternate Sunday evenings at Stratton Church. Sidesmen carried the coffin to the grave, where the committal ceremony was pronounced by the Rev. Hepworth Thwaites. After the mourners had left the graveside a touching incident occurred. The deceased's scholars filed slowly by the grave, dropping bunches of flowers therein as they passed, sobbing and in tears. Further testimony to the respect in which Mr Lakin was held was provided by the presence of Father Bruno, representing the Downside community, and the Mother Superior and Sister Alphonso from the village Roman Catholic Schools. . . .

Window

There is only one window which has more than simple geometric shapes. This is at the eastern end behind the altar.

	Names	Inscriptions	Notes
1			 A three-light window. Each panel has a mixture of circles, rectangles and diamonds made up of fragments of glass from presumably earlier windows. Most of the fragments are patterns but, at the top, there are some depictions of people. One rectangular fragment has some letters in capitals but they do not seem to form a coherent whole. Another has a few letters in a gothic script.
