

This table lists the overall holdings of newspapers in the collection, but there may be some issues or years missing within the sequences.

The British Newspaper Archive (BNA) has digitised the weekly edition of the Bath Chronicle 1760-1950. There is no index to the paper after this date, although there are clippings collections that may assist your search – please ask for the index. The BNA have also added selected years of the Somerset Standard and the Somerset Guardian – see list below for dates. The Record Office has a subscription to this database that researchers can use on request – the titles cover the whole of the UK.

The Georgian Newspaper Project index covers 17 years of the Bath Chronicle: 1770-71; 1780; 1782-89; 1792-95; 1798-99.

Due to the fragility of many of the papers, you must use the BNA or microfilm wherever possible. All printed newspapers after 1810 must be requested at least a week in advance so we can arrange for their retrieval from the offsite stores. There may be a limit on the number of papers that will be retrieved if your list is extensive as some papers are very large.
