Christ Church from the south-east

FROME FREE CHURCH. —On Tuesday last, the 15th, the corner stone the new Free Church at Frome was laid by the Most Honourable the Marquess of Bath. On this truly memorable occasion it is computed that not less than twenty thousand persons were assembled in various parts of the town, to view the procession. A number of special constables had been sworn in by the Magistrates on the preceding day, and owing partly to this precaution, but still more to the lively interest which every individual seemed to feel for the prosperity of the undertaking not the slightest disturbance or accident occurred throughout the day, but the whole passed off in the most orderly manner, and highly to the gratification of every person present. The business of the day commenced with service at the Parish Church, where the prayers were read by the Rev. J. Algar, Curate of Frome, after which a most excellent and appropriate sermon was preached by the Rev. C. Phillott, Vicar, from I Kings, 8 chap, and 13, '27,57, and 60th verses—"I have surely built thee an House to dwell in, a settled place for thee to abide in for ever.—But will God indeed dwell on the earth? Behold, the heaven and heaven of heavens cannot contain thee, how much less this House that I have builded!—The Lord our God be with us as was with our fathers; let him not leave us nor forsake us—That all the people of the earth may know that the Lord is God, and that there is none else."—After the sermon a collection was made, which amounted 141l. 13s. 9d. . . .

From the Salisbury and Winchester Journal of Mon

Consecration the New Church at Frome.—The performance of this most interesting ceremony took place on Tuesday last. The venerable Bishop of Bath and Wells, to whose zealous support this important undertaking has been much indebted, was prevented by ill health from officiating in person, and the Hon. and Right Rev. the Bishop of Gloucester attended in his stead. At an early hour, great numbers of persons began to arrive in the town from all parts of the surrounding county; and by eleven o'clock, all who were to take part in the proceedings of the day had assembled in the Old Church. The procession then commenced, preceded by a band of music. The Bishop, in his carriage, went first, followed, on foot, by the Clergy, Subscribers, Schools, &c. attended by a number of Special Constables. Among the distinguished characters present on this solemn occasion, were the Marquis of Bath, the Earl of Cork and Orrery, T. S. Champneys, Esq. of Orchardleigh, as Hereditary Sexton, Sir T. B. Lethbridge, Bart. J. Acland, Esq. C. Knatchbull and W. Knatchbull, Esqrs. W. A. Sanford, Esq. —Thring, Esq. and most of the gentry of the neighbourhood, a large assemblage of clergy, in their gowns, and subscribers and well-wishers to the undertaking. On the arrival of the procession at the New Church (now called Christ Church), the ceremony commenced according to the Apostolical and truly sublime form of the Established Church. The service was performed by the Right Rev. Prelate, assisted by the Rev. C. Phillott, J. Algar, and J. P. L. Fenwick. The Bishop then preached a most appropriate and eloquent sermon, from Matt. 18, 20: "Where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in midst of them." It would be impossible to do justice to this masterly discourse by any analysis of it; we shall, therefore, only say, that it breathed throughout a truly devotional spirit, coupled with most sincere and affectionate attachment to the Established Church; both exhibited and recommended in such a manner as evidently to excite kindred emotions in the breast every one present. After the sermon, the holy Sacrament was administered by his Lordship and the Rev. C. Phillott, Vicar of Frome, to all the clergy and a few of the laity; and the Consecration the Church was thus completed. The weather having now become rainy, the procession did not return, as had been intended, to the old Church in the same order. The Bishop, however, the clergy, and a number of other subscribers, attended there immediately, where services appointed by the Church previous to the Consecration of a burial ground were performed. His Lordship then went to the New Burial-ground, which surrounds the New Church, and consecrated it also. At six o'clock in the evening, the parish church presented a most imposing spectacle, being crowded to excess in every part, the Bishop having most kindly consented to preach a second sermon in aid of the Church fund. It is supposed that nearly 4000 persons were present; and the solemnity of such a scene was aided by all that music and singing of the most superior description could contribute. Here again, as before, we find ourselves unable give anything like an adequate account of the admirable sermon which his Lordship preached. The text was John 21, the 1st part of v. 15. "He saith unto him, feed my lambs." His Lordship pointed out with a felicity and pathos, peculiar to himself, the reciprocal duties of a minister and his flock; and ended with a most animated application of what he had said, to the case which he was so powerfully advocating. A collection of upwards of 76*l.* was made after the sermon. The whole receipts on this occasion have been something more than 400*l.* exclusive of a complete service of Communion Plate, presented to the Church on the morning of the Consecration, by Mrs. Jenkyns, of Wells. We are sure that our readers will not be displeased with us for having given so detailed an account of a ceremony, the description of which cannot but be gratifying in the highest degree, to every friend of our excellent Church, and indeed to sincere christians of every denomination. It was a day which none who were present will ever forget, or think but with emotions of deep and unmingled delight. We understand that the funds of this excellent institution are still deficient, and the committee feel themselves called on, while they gratefully acknowledge the past liberality of the public, earnestly to solicit further assistance.

We have authority to state, that the Bishop of Gloucester and the Archdeacon of Bath have had a meeting, at the house of the latter; that after mutual explanation both have expressed themselves satisfied, that, in making their respective statements of a general nature during the late controversy, each acted at the time from the conscientious conviction of his own mind; that his Lordship regretted that his statement of the conduct of the Archdeacon being unauthorised and unjustifiable should by any means be perverted to a defamation of the Archdeacon's character; and that, without any compromise of opinion upon the general subject, they are both desirous to withdraw their mutual censures as to the points above-mentioned, and continue upon terms of civility and good-will.—Bath Chronicle.

(The spat was over the formation of the Church Missionary Society, the bishop being its president and the archdeacon, the Rev Josiah Thomas, being against it. It led to various publications such as 'Considerations on the Probable Effects of the Opposition of the Orthodox Clergy to the Evangelical Brethren, occasioned by the late Protest against the Church Missionary Society in a Letter to the Rev. the Archdeacon of Bath - by an Orthodox Clergyman' (Morning Post Wed 13 May 1818 p2).)

Newspapers in June 1856 reported that an order in council had been applied for permission for the (anticipated) burial on the Earl of Cork and Orrery in the family vault. The implication is that burials at St John's had been curtailed and special permission was required. An order in council for the closure of the burial ground has yet to found.

From the Frome Times of Wed 17 Sep 1862 p4:

CHRIST CHURCH.—Monday was the anniversary of the Consecration of Christ Church (consecrated in 1818). A new flag (the St. George's ensign), was hoisted for the first time on the Church tower, to celebrate the occasion. In the evening, the teachers of the schools met together to partake of a substantial tea, and a very pleasant evening was passed.

From the Frome Times of Wed 8 Oct 1862 p4:

THE CASE OF ATTEMPTED SACRILEGE.—John Davis, a man of somewhat "sottish" appearance, was brought up on remand charged with breaking and entering Christ Church, Frome, on the night of Monday last. John Hutchins, the sexton, having given some formal evidence, Superintendent Deggan stated that on Monday evening, a little after 11 o'clock, he received information that a light had been seen in Christ Church. He immediately went thither, and, listening, he distinctly heard some one walking about the church, and, afterwards, sounds as if the person had fallen over something. He placed a constable on each side of the church, and having procured the keys from

Mr. Cox's he entered the building, accompanied by Sergeant Watts, locking the door behind him. Not finding any one in the body of the church. they descended into the cellar, and there found the prisoner concealed in a corner. He appeared to be very much frightened. He was taken into the body of the church, and searched, but only a box of matches, a piece of candle, and three half-pence and a farthing were found on him. Having sent the prisoner to the police-station, the Superintendent examined the church, and found that one of the almschests had been broken open, and the lock of the other tampered with. An iron rake was found near the second chest, and it was evident that had been used for the purpose of forcing open the padlocks. On examining the grating of the coal-cellar, he found entrance had been gained through it, as the staple had been forced out of the wall. The prisoner subsequently admitted he had entered through the grating, and said he could not think what had tempted him to it.—Evidence was given by P.S. Watts as to his having seen a light in the church, and seeing the prisoner in the building near the pulpit.—The prisoner said he was awfully sorry for what had done. He had never been before the magistrates before, and he hoped they would have pity and mercy upon him, for if he was sent for trial, it was likely he should be transported.—Dr. Harrison said it was very likely he would; and he was then committed for trial at the Assizes.

(The last transportation of convicts to Australia occurred in 1868. As reported in the Frome Times of 24 Dec 1862, at the Winter Assizes John Davis was found guilty of sacrilege - namely stealing a penny, a half-penny and a farthing - from Christ Church Church and sentenced to two months' imprisonment with hard labour.)

From the Frome Times of Wed 2 Nov 1864 p2 in a section dealing with (mainly) local matters:

CHRIST CHURCH.—We understand that a subscription has been commenced for the purpose of restoring the west window of Christ Church, and for re-seating the nave and aisles.

In 1886 and 1887 there were various musical performances in aid of the fund for re-seating Christ Church. By March 1867 the fund had reached £150, half the amount needed. The Church Building Society contributed £35 in Jan 1868. A grant from the London Church Building Society was subject the certain conditions but these were rejected (Frome Times Wed 1 Apr 1868 p2). The press report didn't state the conditions; these were usually that the seats would be free, ie not subject to pew rent. However, prior to consecration, the church was called the 'Free Church'.

The re-seating was completed in Sep 1868 and reported in the Frome Times of 16 Sep 1868 p2:

CHRIST CHURCH, FROME To us, who have had, happily, the more than annual duty of recording the restoration of Parish Churches, or the consecration of new ones, it is scarce an easy task to say what has been done in the Christ Church of Frome this year. A "restoration" has not been attempted, yet a complete restoration is necessary; renovation, however, has been accomplished where a "revolution" was much needed, and no one will fail to mark that whether it be a restoration or a renovation it is decidedly an improvement, and one which the congregation have gladly welcomed i and fully appreciate.

The Church reared for this mission is not a very sightly edifice. Half a century ago ecclesiastical art was not cultivated as it is now. The old imperishable rules were appropriated, but to them were added all that modern "requirements" needed ; and a more flagrant instance of Gothic architectural spoil than our Christ Church of Frome could hardly be found. Designed at a time when art was at its lowest ebb, it was encumbered with galleries which blocked up the aisles. The west window was shut up by the organ; and, in short, almost every excrescence that could be adopted seems to have been brought into requisition. This regime, it would appear, prevailed until some 18 years ago, when a most creditable effort was made to render the edifice what it ought to be. The clerestory windows were much improved, and on the north side, windows, partially filled with stained glass, were built in harmony. These improvements however only made "the poor look poorer," and very poor, all will acknowledge, was the appearance of Christ Church till its present renovation. The nave was filled with for we can call them no other name—in which it was a discomfort to sit, and from which a child could not see; and the aisles by open, high-backed benches, in which the poor were expected to be conspicuous by their presence. There were also—and are also—the further detriments of the galleries, and the complete obstruction of the recently restored West window by the organ. Add to these, the fixing within the chancel sides a kind of select box, the filling in of every arch with a pew, and an elaborate attempt on the part of the architect to subvert every principle of Church architecture and the reader may have some idea of Christ Church as it was. A friend has very kindly furnished us with the following practical note:—

“Christ Church was erected from the designs of the late Mr. Underwood, of Bath, in a style and character which may be correctly designated “debased Gothic,” though at that time it might have been considered a creditable specimen of Church architecture, yet the revivalist of the present day, we presume, would scarcely allow that the building was originally possessed of a single correct architectural feature. The original windows and other more prominent features of the building are of the meanest description in detail, and so unsubstantial that since the time of its erection considerable restorations have become absolutely necessary. . . .”

From the Frome Times of Wed 26 Jun 1872 p2 in a article which says a lot about social attitudes of the time:

CHRIST CHURCH DISTRICT OUT-DOOR
LECTURES.

The first of a series of out-door religious meetings for this summer took place on Wednesday evening last, at the Butts-square. For the past few days much curiosity had been aroused with respect to the movement, and there were many who thought such meetings would not prove very successful; but on Wednesday evening, all such doubts on the subject were soon banished. For a long time before the hour appointed for the commencement of the service, a large crowd began to assemble, which continued to increase until there could not have been less than 250 persons present. We should state that about 50 of these belonged to what is known as the more respectable class of society—the majority of them being members who generally attend Christ Church; the remainder of the “congregation” being the most incongruous we ever remember to have seen take part in a religious service. They certainly belonged to the working classes, there could be no doubt about that, for they were in their working attire, the men just as they had left their foundries, factories, or workshops—their faces being quite as black as their grimy jackets. There were also a great many women present; some of them without infants, but the majority with them. On the arrival of the Rev. E. Burnaby, who we believe was the promoter of the movement (with the sanction and approval of the Rev. G. F. Gex), silence was immediately observed. The rev. gentleman, advancing to the front, said:—“I must ask those who have assembled to hear me, for their serious attention for a few moments. I am sorry to find that there are great many of you who do not go to the House of God on Sunday; but if you will not go to Church, I must try and bring the Church to you; not that this service will be any substitute for going to church, but that it might be the means of inducing you to worship God in His temple on the Sabbath.” The 51st hymn “Hymns Ancient and Modern,” was then sung, the majority present joining in.

After the Confession was said, and a few short prayers from the Prayer Book, the hymn, “Glory to Thee, my God, this night,” was sung, followed by a short extempore prayer. The sermon then commenced. The rev. gentleman took his text from S. John xviii. 38, “Pilate saith unto Him, what is truth?” and in a clear eloquent tone, which could be heard far beyond the crowd by whom he was surrounded, he commenced by saying “I am here, brethren, to address you to-night not one raised above yourselves, but as a man who wishes to speak to his fellow-men about the things of Christ. Do not suppose that I mean to talk about holiness and perfection, myself being holy and perfect, nothing of the kind. . . .”

Questions were raised about the drainage in Christ Church’s graveyard (Frome Times Wed 8 Jan 1873 p2). Mr Holland, the Government Inspector, was due to visit and a committee had been established to enquire and report on the state of the graveyard. Holes were dug to ascertain the level of the water. The report stated that all graves were dug to 6 feet and vaults were mostly 8 feet with the few that were deeper having been specially drained by the proprietors. It was acknowledged that certain areas just north of the church were waterlogged. As reported in the Frome Times of Wed 12 Feb 1873 p2:

The Churchwardens of Frome had received notice from the Secretary of State to the effect that it was his intention to recommend Her Majesty in Council that burials be discontinued forthwith in Christ Church burial ground except in graves and vaults which could be used without baling out water. The Board decided that it was simply their duty to see that the order was carried out, but that the attention of the Secretary of State should be drawn to the omission of the words "five feet deep" before the word "graves."

However, the sexton was prepared to 'effectually drain the churchyard - so that burials could be continued for a least another 15 years - for the sum of £5.' (Frome Times Wed 12 Mar 1873 p3). The reply from the authorities in London came that month:

The Right Honourable Henry Austin Bruce, one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, has signified his intention to represent to Her Majesty in Council, that for the protection of the public health, no new burial ground shall be opened in the parish of Frome, in the county of Somerset, without the previous approval of one of such Secretaries of State, and that burials be discontinued forthwith in the burial ground of Christ Church, Frome, in the county of Somerset, except in graves and vaults which can be used without bailing out water—every coffin, which is not separately enclosed by stonework be covered by at least four feet in depth of soil."

(Frome Times Wed 26 Mar 1873 p2).

From the Somerset Standard of Sat 22 May 1886 p5:

CHRIST CHURCH. —The question as to whether incense shall be used in this church at early celebration once a month and on festivals was discussed at a special meeting of communicants held on Thursday evening in the Schoolroom. The R. R. Bromage in a long address defended this addition to the ritual, dealing chiefly with the historic side of the question. Mr. John Bally expressed disapproval of the vicar's action because he thought it might wound the feelings of some of "the weaker brethren." A ballot was taken and the vicar's action approved by a majority of about 20 votes. There were about 80 communicants present.

From the Somerset Standard of Sat 7 Apr 1888 p4 col f in a report on the Frome Board of Guardians:

The Clerk called attention the mode of conducting the funerals from the Workhouse as they were not allowed to be taken into Christ Church, and the Master produced the correspondence between the Vicar of Frome and the Rev. R. R. Bromage relating thereto. It was resolved that the Chairman be requested to see the Vicar of Frome and the Rev. R. R. Bromage, and endeavour to arrange for the use of Christ Church as heretofore.

From the Somerset Standard of Sat 21 Apr 1888 p4 in a report on a meeting of the Frome Board of Guardians:

It was resolved that the Clerk forward a copy of Mr. Dunn's letter to the Rev. R. R. Bromage, the incumbent of Christ Church, together with the extracts from the general orders referring to 7 and 8 Vict., which says the Workhouse shall be deemed to be situate in the parish to which each person was chargeable, &c, and ask that the funerals may in future be taken to Christ Church

The matter continued until May 1888 when a letter to the Board of Guardians from solicitors acting for the Rev Bromage stated that he would 'henceforth be prepared to bury any paupers dying in the Workhouse who are parishioners of Christ Church when taken into the House.' The letter made it clear that this would not apply to any paupers from St John's, Woodlands or Trinity.

The Somerset Standard of Sat 13 Jul 1889 p6 reported on the inquest into the drowning of 3 boys who were inmates at the Diocesan Homes for Waifs and Strays: Joseph Churchfield (10), John Lowder (10) and Edward Paul (11). It also reported on the funeral at Christ Church in two graves 'one of the boys being placed in a grave occupied by a former inmate of the Home'. While there are GRO death registrations for the three, there are no entries in the Christ Church or St John's burial registers.

From the Somerset Standard of Fri 14 Jan 1921 p6:

When Christ Church was built it was intended to be merely a chapel of ease to the Parish Church, and in order to save expense it was erected in the Parish Churchyard. In 1847 an Order in Council altered its status. The officiating clergyman became a perpetual curate, and a parish, cut out of the old Parish of Frome, was assigned to it. The incumbent of the new district obtained equal rights in the churchyard with the Vicar of Frome. But the old status of the burial ground was unaltered, and it remained, and still is, the churchyard of the Parish church.

A rather astonishing fact has come to light. It appears that as long ago as 1857 an Order in Council closed Christ Churchyard, except in those portions in which graves could be dug without water coming in. No notice seems to have been taken of this.

From the Somerset Standard of Fri 24 Feb 1967 p2:

Notice is hereby given that the Parochial Church Council of the Parish of Christ Church, Frome, propose to apply to the Consistory Court of the Diocese of Bath and Wells for a Faculty to level all unattended gravemounds and remove unmarked (badly rusted) metal crosses in the Churchyard of the said Parish in order to facilitate general tidiness.

The church is Grade II* listed by Historic England. The entry has: 'Original church built 1817-1818, architect G A Underwood. Refenestrated 1840s by Manners and Gill; east extension 1904-05 by W George Brown; south transept 1899; "North transept" 1929 by Sir Harold Brakespeare.'

The annual report for St John the Baptist, Frome for 2019 has:

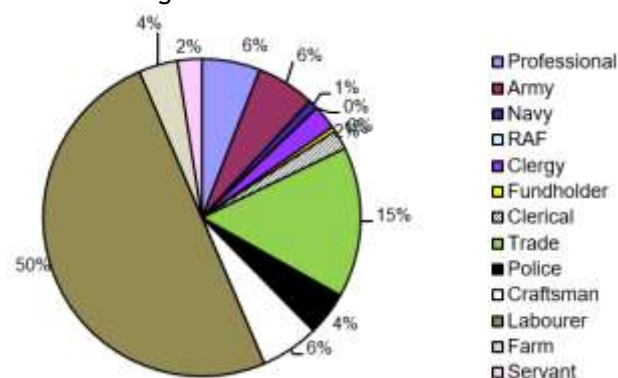

The northern extension to the churchyard at Christ Church was originally conveyed to the parish of Frome St John the Baptist, and details of current title are awaiting clarification.

Occupants

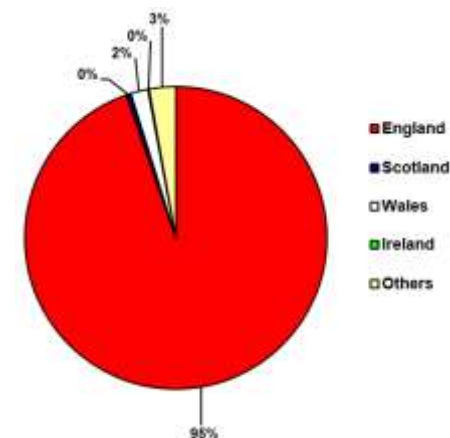

The age profile has 23.7% aged under 11 and 30% aged over 70. It was notable as the inscriptions were being documented that many men never reached retirement age.

The occupations of those buried have about 50% as labourers, 6% craftsmen and 15% trades. A surprising number of the labourers worked for the Great Western Railway and for printers. The printing firm of Butler & Tanner lasted from 1845 until 2008 when, threatened with closure, it restarted as Tanner, Butler & Dennis with a smaller workforce and finally closed in 2014, the site being redeveloped as housing. Some have an occupation concerned with 'art metal works'. The Frome Art Metal Works, founded by John Webb Singer in 1848, produced ecclesiastical metal crosses and monuments including Cromwell which stands outside Parliament, Lady Justice on top of the Old Bailey and Boadicea and Her Daughters on the Thames Embankment in London. The firm, after a merger, eventually relocated away from Frome.

As one might expect for a provincial English town, the vast majority of those buried were born in England. There are a few born in British colonies (India, Canada, Ceylon, Australia), two from Ukraine and two from Estonia, as a consequence of the last world war, and some specialists such as brass moulder (Belgium) and ice cream seller (Italy). From the Devizes and Wiltshire Gazette of Thu 29 Mar 1832 p3:

Second Emigration from Frome to Canada.— On Sunday evening last, those persons who had come the resolution of emigrating to Upper Canada from this town were requested to attend at the parish workhouse, where a substantial supper was provided. A large number of persons, including the friends and relations of the emigrants, assembled to take their last farewell of them. It was gratifying to perceive that they were about proceed on their voyage in excellent spirits. Every preparation had been made in the way of subscriptions and clothes for their comfort during the voyage. Eleven waggons were hired for the purpose of conveying them and their luggage to Bristol, where they were to embark. At nine o'clock they began to move towards that city, and half-past ten or eleven o'clock the last waggon left the town, amidst the tears of some, and expressions of regret of others, but all joining in prayers for their future welfare. There were about 156 individuals in all, entertaining the most sanguine hopes of being enabled by their industry to do much better for themselves and families in the land to which they were going than in this country. Many of these persons had been induced to emigrate by the success which attended those who left Frome last spring, and they were exulting at the prospect of joining their relatives in Canada who had preceded them in their enterprise. One poor woman, named Slade, with seven children, goes out to join her husband at Amherstberg, a distance of 700 or 800 miles from Quebec, at his especial desire, having sent home assurance of his being well able to provide comfortably for his family, stating that he could stand at his door and overlook 100 acres of land of his own, some of which was in good cultivation. This man had been receiving parochial relief in Frome. In the evening at Christ Church, a most impressive discourse, appropriated to the occasion, was delivered from the 2d of Cbron. xv. by the Rev. J. Alger, to those about to leave their native land.

From the Bath Chronicle of Thu 29 Mar 1832 p3:

It will be perceived by a paragraph at the head of our local news, that one hundred and fifty six persons left Frome on Sunday evening last, on their way to Bristol, to embark the next morning at that place for Canada. The greater portion of these emigrants leave the country in consequence of the entreaties of their friends who have gone before them and prospered. There can, in fact, be no doubt that those emigrants who possess industry and perseverance will do well, very well in Canada; —they who do not possess these qualities will, in the present day, do well no-where.

It is certainly most painful to see the poorer classes of our land compelled, by stern necessity, to leave for ever the country which gave them birth—in which they have spent their childhood, youth, and prime of manhood - with which are connected all the pleasant associations that have grown upon them through life—a land which holds the graves of their "rude forefathers," and the "long homes" of those dearer kindred who have lived and died in their sight;—all this is painful to contemplate, but still more painful is it to see a willing and hard-working man unable, by the utmost exertion of his toil, to earn the subsistence of those who are dependent on him for the means of life, and to behold him gradually sinking into that abhorred state of physical and mental degradation which, we regret to say, is too often superinduced by a dependance on the parish pittance for support.

We have always said, that however much emigration may be disapproved of by a numerous class of kind-hearted and well-intentioned individuals, "to this favour must it come at last." We are told by some political economists that it is impossible for a country to be too densely populated—that population is wealth, &c. If population be wealth, how is it that, in England, as population increases, misery increases? It is useless to say that the energies the people are not rightly directed—that people who cannot find employment in one pursuit should adopt another, for it unfortunately happens that in all branches business there is a superfluity of hands who are not only half starving themselves, but prevent, by the effect of their eager and unhealthy competition, all other persons engaged in the same business from obtaining adequate remuneration for their labour. If employment cannot be obtained for the population now, how is it to be obtained when the population doubled, which it bids fair to be at a period of time which is, comparatively, not very remote?

To us the arguments usually urged against emigration appear to be too weak and baseless to require serious consideration. Why, the world has, from the beginning of time, been one unvarying scene of emigration. Ever since Noah quitted the Ark, the communities of the earth have been spreading over the face of this wide terrene.— They have, with fearless spirit, crossed mountains, deserts, rivers, seas, —impelled by the irresistible desire of improving their condition which so strongly implanted in the bosoms of all who are of woman born. How otherwise would the world have been peopled?.

A press report in 1949 also gives another illustration of people going to parts of the Empire. Ethel Kate Trollope from Frome went to Australia in 1922 (the journey took about six weeks). She married a farmer at Sydney the same year and after farming in New South Wales returned to Frome with her husband in the 1930s.

Notable People

George Sheppard (1772-1855) and his wife Mary Ann Stuart Sheppard (1777-1838)

The Frome Standard Sat 25-Mar-1893 p6 has an article which starts 'Mr. George Sheppard was truly a Frome worthy, for it was in his time and through him that the staple trade of Frome reached its greatest height and prosperity, and during his guidance that the greater part of the factories at Spring Gardens were built'. His wife was the daughter of a naval captain who had distinguished himself in the American and French revolutionary wars.

Reginald Francis Thomas Hughes Dix (1878-1938)

The Somerset Standard of Fri 30-Dec-1938 p6 gives an account of his life, including his career starting as a reporter on the Somerset Standard rising to become the editor when he returned from serving in the Somerset Light Infantry in the First World War.

John Charles Johnston (1848-1925)

Worked for the Public Works Department of the Madras presidency. His obituary in the Somerset Standard of Fri 20 Mar 1925 p5 includes:

'Whilst he designed and built many important buildings for the Government. his main achievement was in designing and carrying out irrigation schemes on a very extensive plan, and it was chiefly owing to his plans that the great and serious famines in the South of India were broken.'

Thomas Bunn (1767-1853)

The death notice in the Bath Chronicle of 19 May 1853 p3 has: May 15, at his residence in Frome Selwood, Thomas Bunn, Esq, at the advanced age of 86. He will long be remembered in his native town as the liberal and active promoter of all improvements and useful institutions, and especially as a friend to the friendless.

Burial Registers

The burial register for St John's Frome 1813- includes burials at Woodlands and Christ Church. More recently it has entries for burial at East Hill¹. For a time, entries for burials that occurred at Christ Church were annotated to indicate this. However, this stopped at the end of 1845, and resumed in 1850-52 and 1854-58. Thereafter it not clear whether the burial was at St John's or Christ Church. The existence of some entries having memorials at St John's and press reports stating that burials were at Christ Church suggest that there is a mixture.

A burial on 21 May 1819 has 'at Christ Church the first buried there'.

The entry for the church at 'A Church Near You' website has:

"The main churchyard is a considerable size, having once been shared with St John's Church (1818-1888). It is now closed for burials and is maintained by Mendip District Council."

(From 1 Apr 2023 Mendip District Council merged with other district councils to form Somerset Council.)

Somerset Heritage Centre's catalogue has no entries for burial registers for this church. The parish has the following registers:

1888-1911	800 entries
1911-1933	800 entries
1933-1948	800 entries

The usage of the registers for burials at Christ Church is not helpful:

- An entry in the Christ Church register means the burial was at Christ Church
- An entry in the St John's register can be for a burial in one of: St John's, Christ Church and St Katherine's, Woodlands. Some burials at Christ Church are indicated as such in the register but this is by no means consistent as evidenced by press reports of funeral services being performed at St John's with the subsequent burial at Christ Church.
- For nonconformists there may be no entry in either of the Anglican registers. For example press reports on a burial in 1937 stated that the individual was a member of the (Baptist) Sheppards Barton Church choir, that the funeral occurred there but, while there exists a memorial at Christ Church, there is no entry in either the Christ Church or St John's registers. Similarly a burial in 1934 has the funeral service in the Catholic church without entries in the Anglican burial registers.
- There is the case of a double entry. Emily Hyatt's burial in 1954 has entry 219 in the St John's register and entry 333 in the Christ Church register.

This leaves a residue of non-Anglicans who were buried at Christ Church for whom there is no memorial and no entry in the Anglican burial registers.

Previous Survey

A survey was carried out by the late Derek Gill. The document that he produced has the numbers of the plots with the names and dates found on the memorials.

Current Survey

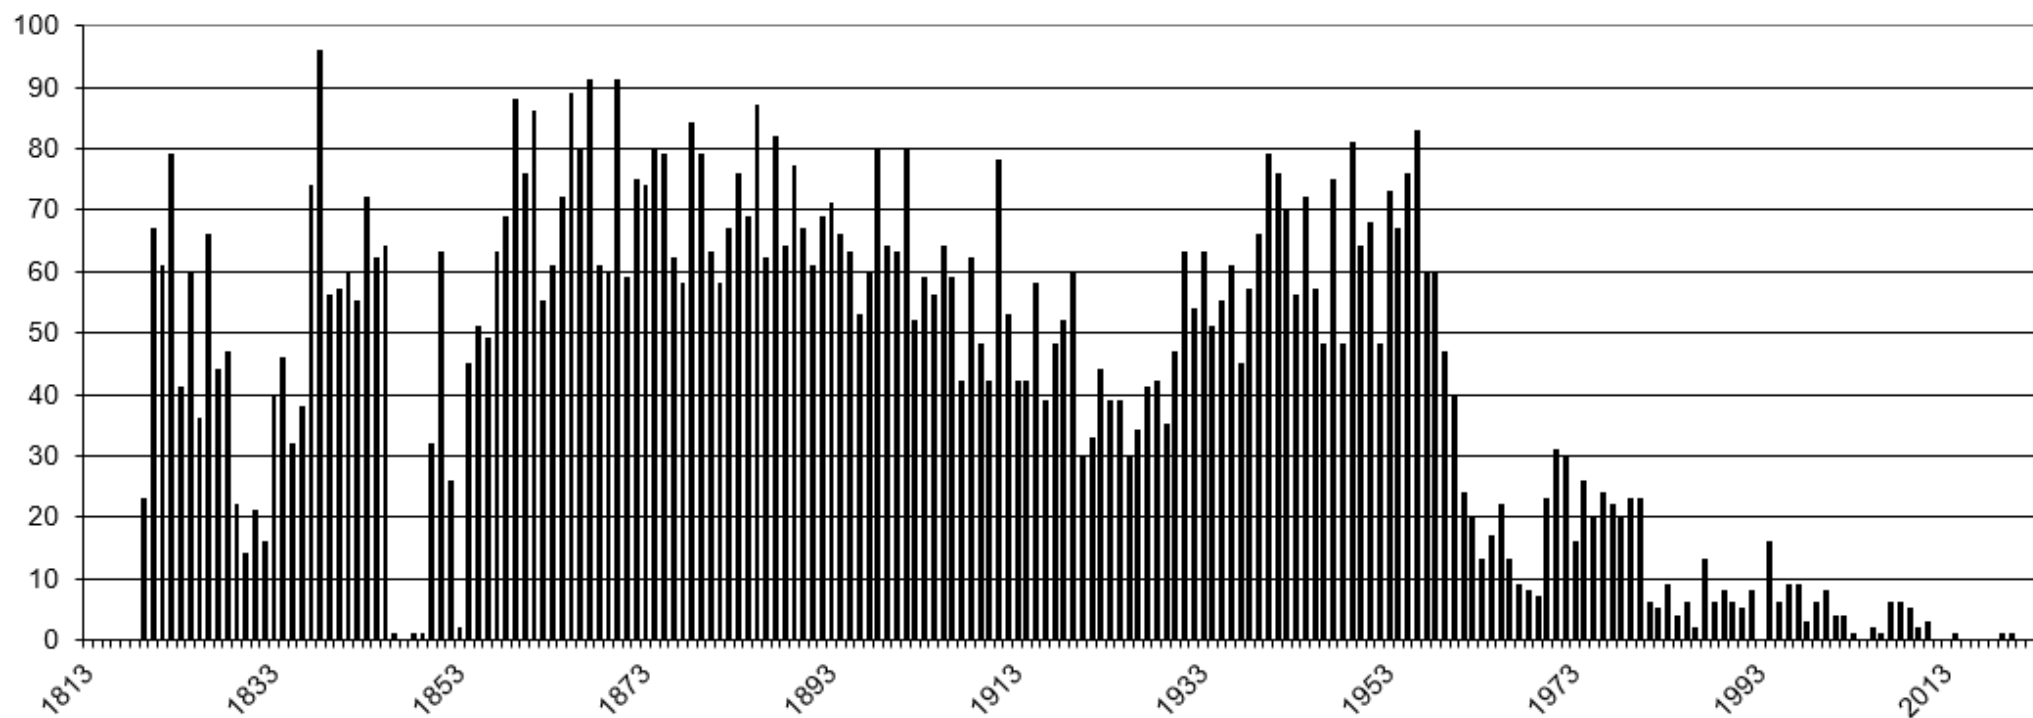

The current survey has been carried out by numerous visits over 2023-2025. The basis has been the burial register entries from the St John's and Christ Church burial registers. For the St John's register some entries state explicitly that the burial occurred at Christ Church. These have been reconciled with the entries from Derek Gill's survey which give the plot numbers for surviving memorials. The resulting entries have then been augmented by the addition of information from the memorials themselves and research to check years of birth of death and add any further information that might help in identifying the individual.

Since the previous survey various memorials have disappeared and some have been degraded by weathering and delamination.

Acknowledgements

I am grateful to Caroline Thornycroft for supplying transcripts of the parish's burial registers and Rev Colin Alsbury for supplying the St John's registers which contain entries for burials at Christ Church.

Layout

The churchyard has distinct areas bounded by paths and walls. The original extent comprised sections here labelled A-D. There is a southern extension (Section E) from the early 20th century and a more recent Garden of Remembrance for cremation plaques, a gated area bounded by a hedge.

Each section is arranged with rows identified by letters. Although plot numbers from the previous survey assigned plot numbers, the sparsity of the memorials means that the numbers need to be treated as relative rather than absolute locations. In Section A, the numbering scheme for plots from the previous survey breaks down where the sparsity of the memorials has caused row letters and plot numbers to deviate from a grid arrangement.

From the Bath Chronicle of Thu 8 Feb 1855 p3: Feb 3, at Fromefield House, Frome, George Sheppard, Esq, in the 82nd year of his age. (The death notice appeared in a number of newspapers.) George Sheppard was a member of the Sheppard family of cloth manufacturers who started in the 17th century and ca to dominate cloth production in Frome in the 19th century. Sheppard's Barton is a group of houses built of house weavers. From an article entitled 'Some Reminiscences of Frome Worthies' which appeared in the Somerset Standard of Sat 25 Mar 1893 p6: Mr. George Sheppard was truly a Frome worthy, for it was in his time and through him that the staple trade of Frome reached its greatest height and prosperity, and during his guidance that the greater part of the factories at Spring Gardens were built, as when Mr. Sheppard commenced his career, towards the end of the last century, only the large factory, driven by water power,

	Names	Inscriptions	Notes
			was to be seen there, the other buildings being erected as the trade increased, or as machinery was introduced. The article also relates: The introduction of machinery swept most of the small manufacturers away, of whom there were then many in Frome, their little factories having been long since turned into cottages, only the rich and the large makers being able to stand the change, which involved so large an outlay. The Messrs. Sheppard were the first to adapt themselves to the change. . . . At the time of the first election for Frome, in 1832. Mr. Sheppard took great interest in it, this being the first time that the borough exercised the franchise, his brother, Mr. T. Sheppard, being the candidate; and although he advocated the liberalism of the Reform Bill, and notwithstanding that his family represented the greater part of the trade of the town, at that date, yet the mass of the people was against them, although the more sensible party carried the election on the polling day. So severe was the rioting on the first day of the election, that Mr. Sheppard's party was driven out of the town, and had to take refuge anywhere, until they found safety at Fromefield House, where the whole family seemed to be, for some time, in a state of siege. It has been said that the house was barricaded day and night, for three weeks, fearing an attack from the rioters of Sir Thomas Champney's party, during the whole of which time hot suppers were prepared at Fromefield, for 300 persons, who were stationed there all night, to guard the place, these men going in to supper in batches of forty.

			The facts were reported to the Coroner for the district and a post-mortem examination was held on Monday night, but no inquest was found to be necessary. From the burial register: Stefan Tymus, aged 25, of EVW Hostel, Bath Rd, Frome was buried on 4 Feb 1950. EVW was the European Voluntary Workers scheme whereby Ukrainian POWs (freed in 1948) and other displaced persons were accommodated in hostels near their place of work which had been allocated by the Ministry of Labour. About 8,000 Ukrainian POWs of the Galician Brigade were allowed to stay in this country. From the Yalta Agreement, Soviet nationals were repatriated (see Operation Keelhaul) and, it is alleged, on their return summarily executed. Those from Galicia did not suffer this fate as the British government argued that they were not Soviet citizens as the area of Galicia had been in Poland prior to Sep 1939. From the Somerset Standard of Fri 7 May 1948 p5: Concert at Whitehouse Hostel Organised entirely by themselves the members of the Whitehouse Hostel on Monday evening presented an enjoyable concert in their Recreation Room. The room had been decorated for the occasion with the flags of the Ukraine on the one side, and flags of Yugo Slavia on the other. Around the room were hung mottoes in the two languages, whilst over the stage was the phrase, meaning on translation, "United we stand, divided we fall." Apart from one item in the show by Mr. Langford. of Wells, a former ENSA artist, the programme consisted entirely of Ukrainian songs and marches. . . .

HIS DYING CONFIDENCE WEAS EXPRESSED IN THE WORDS OF THE MARTYR "NONE BUT CHRIST" SUDDEN AND PAINFUL WAS THE STROKE WHICH REMOVED HIM, BUT HIS EYES CLOSED IN PEACE, AND RESTED ON THE PROSPECT OF GLORY. "BLESSED ARE THE DEA WHICH DIE IN THE LORD." OBT 28 DEC^R A.D. 1838 ÆTAT LII	From the Buckland Dingam burial register: Joseph Algar, aged 51, of Frome, was buried on 28 Dec 1838. From the Wiltshire Independent of Thu 3 Jan 1839 p3: FROME. We have the painful task of recording the death the Rev. Joseph Algar, minister of Christ Church, Frome, which melancholy event took place at Wells, on Sunday, the 23rd-of December. The Rev. gentleman bad, a few days previously, 'attended' a public meeting in that city, when he was suddenly seized with an illness of peculiarly distressing character, and after surviving for some days, from the effects of a surgical operation, hopes were entertained of ultimate recovery, but an unfavourable change ensued, and death was the result. On the sad news reaching Frome, it caused deep regret, and was announced by the minute bells of each church being tolled during the day. The deceased has left a widow, aud also four children, by his first wife. From The Salisbury and Winchester Journal of Mon 7 Jan 1839 p3:
