Introduction

The church of St Mary the Virgin, Stanton Drew

From the Imperial Gazetteer of England and Wales 1870-72 by John Marius Wilson:

STANTON-DREW, a parish, with three tythings, to Clutton district, Somerset; under Dundry Beacon, and on the Bristol and North Somerset railway, adjacent to Pensford, 7 miles S by E of Bristol. It has a post-office under Bristol. Acres, 2,075. Real property, £5,711. Pop., 523. Houses, 116. The property is subdivided. The manor, with S. Court, belongs to P. E. Coates, Esq. Belluton House belonged once to the father of the philosopher Locke, and is now the seat of G. Smithson, Esq. Copper works were formerly here, but have been relinquished. Numerous remarkable antiquities, of the kind called Druidical, are near the church and in another locality, and gave rise to the suffix-name, Drew. The living is a vicarage, united with Pensford, in the diocese of Bath and Wells. Value, £300. Patron, the Archdeacon of Bath. The church was restored in 1848. There are a Wesleyan chapel, endowed schools with £140 a year, and charities £8.

Draft 1e

According to a plaque in the church the restoration of 1848 involved rebuilding the nave.

In the Bath Chronicle of Thu 8 Aug 1867 p4 in a list of 'Rectorial Tithe Rent Charges for Sale' relating to Stanton Drew and St Thomas, Pensford is a lot for the rent on a property which included a stipulation about liability for the repairs to the chancel of Stanton drew Church.

This practice of having such liabilities, which dates from 1189, came to a head when some leaseholders (the 'Wallbank case') found that they were liable for almost £100,000 for repairs to a church. This was reported widely. The government, through the Land Registration Act 2002, set about identifying such liabilities, the parochial parish councils having to register these with the Land Registry by 12 October 2013. Even though a deadline was imposed, parishes could still register a liability after it. By January 2014, 247 churches had registered 12,276 homes or plots of land as being liable but about 5,000 parishes had yet to register their rights. A short private members bill was introduced in 2014 by Lord Avebury intended 'to make provision for ending the liability of lay rectors for the repair of chancels'. It was to apply to England only. The Chancel Repairs Bill did not become law. IR 104 Tithe Redemption Commission: Records of Ascertainments lists liabilities.

There was a curious story in the Saturday Bristol Times and Mirror of Sat 13 Mar 1869 concerning 'A Legend of Stanton Drew'. An arranged marriage between the daughter of Squire Nimbleton, of Stanton Drew, and the son of Squire Slowtoes, of Chew Magna.

"Young Slowtoes-Timothy by name- was as slow as Mistress Peg was fast. He did not care for dancing: indeed he disliked it; but she was so fond of the pastime that she could almost keep at it all day; hardly deigning to pause for breakfast or dinner. . . The villagers, therefore, were not much surprised when, after Squire Nimbleton was put in a grave immediately in front of the west entrance of Stanton Drew church, the fast young heiress intimated to her betrothed that the match was off. She meant (she frankly told him) to look out for a husband that did not belong to the "Tenth,"- a regiment proverbially indisposed to dancing. [This however, being an obvious anachronism, it is only right to say the legend must have been tampered with by some modern writer.] It was not long known that young Squire Slowtoes got his "walking ticket" (the expression is not mine, but Peg's, as she being "a girl of the period," used slang unreservedly), when another offered for her well-dowered hand. The new-comer was Master Tom Jiggleton, son of gentleman farmer of Winford."

The story continues that the dancing on the wedding night continued to three in the morning and in the morning the villagers found a circle of skeletons fast turning to stones, "the bride and bridegroom were just recognisable by the shape of their petrified wedding garments, and there are still two of the upright stones of the so-called Druidical circle that if critically examined may be identified by the outline of drapery as those of the wilful heiress and her unlucky husband."

This 'legend' was retold in a simplified form in the Taunton Courier of Wed 29 Oct 1924 p10 col f.

From the Bath Chronicle of Thu 24-May 1877 p7:

At a recent meeting of the Ruri-decanal Conference for the District of Chew Magna, Capt. Crothers and Mr. Arter were elected lay representatives, the Rev. E. W. Warren (rector of Compton Martin) and the Rev. T. B. H. Hawkins clerical representatives, of the district; Lieutenant-Colonel Hornidge was appointed treasurer, and the Rev. H. T. Perfect (vicar of Stanton Drew) secretary, as before. The subject for consideration was the burial question, and the following resolution was carried unanimously:— "That the deliberate opinion of the conference, in regard to this matter, is against any further concessions to Dissenters other than legalising silent burial in our churchyards."

(The Burial Laws Amendment Act 1880 allowed burial in an Anglican churchyard without the rites of the Church of England although stipulating the 'All burials under this Act, whether with or without a religious service, shall be conducted in a decent and orderly manner'.)

From the Western Daily Press of Tue 6 Aug 1889 p3:

Stanton Drew Church, which is to be re-opened this week by the Bishop of the Diocese, has been restored at a cost of £500.

The water collector on the gutter on the southern side of the church has the year '1880'.

From the Bristol Mercury of Sat 10 Aug 1889 p3 of the supplement:

STANTON DREW CHURCH RESTORED.

On Thursday the fine old parish church of Stanton Drew was re-opened, after having been closed for a few months, during which time the sacred edifice has been in a very large degree restored. The building was renovated about 40 years ago, but the internal arrangements were left in a very imperfect condition, and further repairs have now effected a very considerable improvement. The old pews have been removed and re-placed by much more comfortable seats of pitch pine. The organ and organ gallery, which not been used for some years, have been entirely removed, and a large American organ provided. A new stone pulpit has been provided, as well as a handsome lectern and screen against the Lyde chapel. The sacarium has been paved with glazed encaustic tiles, the altar raised and dossels added, with a Latin cross of burnished brass as the central emblem of the Faith upon a new retable. The oldest portion of the building is the early Norman font, and there are the remains of an early groined roof in the tower, the lower portion of which belongs to the Decorated period. There is one feature in the church which is peculiar; the old chancel has been surrendered into lay hands, probably some two centuries ago, and a new one added by its die. The spiral staircase leading to the rood loft which ran in front of the old chancel was discovered last year during the improvements. The repairs have been carried out under the superintendence of Mr E. H. Lingen Barker, architect, of Hereford and Weston-super-Mare. The work has cost about £500, which has been spent principally upon the interior of the building, and of that amount about £80 remains to be raised. The church was formally reopened on Thursday, and the ceremony was favoured with beautiful weather, with the result that there was a very large attendance of parishioners and visitors.

In the afternoon luncheon was partaken of by a large company, over whom the Bishop presided.

After the repast, the Chairman gave the toast of the "Queen and Royal Family," which was received with enthusiasm.

In the Western Daily Press of Sat 13 Sep 1902 p6 was a report of raising funds for yet another round of improvements to the church, this time for a better heating system and the restoration of the tenor bell. To celebrate the coronation of King Edward VII they were placing an eight-day clock and consideration was being given to new churchyard.

From Clifton Society of Thu 17 Jun 1915 p13 in a report on a visit by the Somerset Archaeological Society:

STANTON DREW CHURCH

After inspecting the famous megalithic remains the party paid a visit to the church, a short account of which was read by the newly appointed Vicar (the Rev. W. W. Warren). The foundations of the Church of St. Mary were evidently laid within the precincts of the surrounding Druidic remains. The oldest remaining portion of the Church is the Font the base of which seems older than the bowl, and belongs to the early Norman if not Saxon period. There are some fragments of Norman work found among the stones of the old bell-turret which apparently once formed part of a Norman Corbel Table. They are now placed for safety under the cap of the new bell-turret. The Church has gone through great changes and but little of the earlier structure is to be seen.

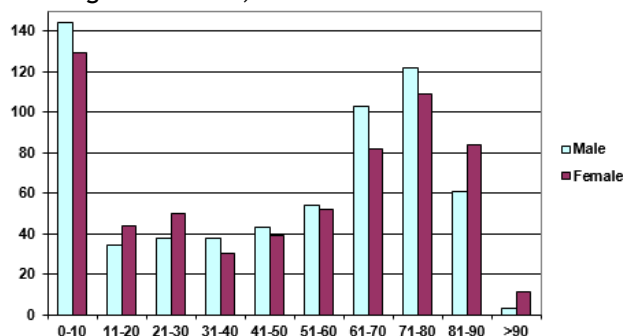

Historic England has designated some chest tombs as Grade II Listed. These are:

- Hazle monument in the churchyard about 5 metres west of south aisle of church

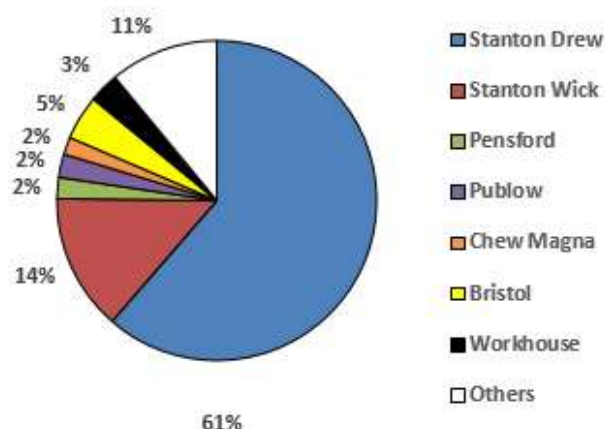

- Wight Preston monument in the churchyard about 4 metres north west of porch of church;
- unidentified monument in the churchyard about 4 metres north east of chancel of church;
- unidentified monument in the churchyard about 3 metres east of south chapel of church.

The church itself is Grade II* listed.

Of those buried in the period 1813-1946 21% were aged under 11, and 30% over 70.

About 75% of those buried in the period 1813-1946 were from Stanton Drew or Stanton Wick, small percentages from neighbouring villages and 3% from Clutton workhouse.

Burial Registers

At Somerset Heritage Centre:

D/P/sta.d 2/1/1 Births, baptisms, marriages and burials 1654-1765

D/P/sta.d 2/1/3 Baptism and Burials 1765-1812

D/P/sta.d 2/1/7 Burials 1813-1881

D/P/sta.d 2/1/8 Burials 1881-1948

D/P/sta.d 2/1/11 Burials 1946-1992

The register from 1993 is with the parish and in April 2023 had 128 entries.

In the first register are a series of transcriptions of earlier records made in 1946 from diocesan transcripts, with burials for 1607 and 1614-1615. This is followed by interleaved baptisms, marriages and burials from 1668. The handwriting of that time, coupled with some fading makes it difficult to transcribe fully. There are gaps 1699-1703, 1715-1720. As was common at the time, there are references to women being 'wife of' without giving her forename and 'widow' with just the surname. Even in those times, they were aware of the disparity between Julian and Gregorian calendars eg giving 1694/5 when it was 1694 in the Julian calendar and 1695 in the Gregorian one, a matter that wasn't resolved until 1752.

Notable Individuals

Michael Foster (1689-1763)

Recorder of Bristol from 1735. In 1743 in a legal case judged that impressment (taking of men into a military or naval force by compulsion, with or without notice) was legal. He was made a justice of the King's Bench in 1745 and knighted. A plaque in the church records that he is buried here. A book was published in 2018 entitled The Life of Sir Michael Foster, knt.; Sometime one of the Judges of the Court of King's Bench, and Recorder of Bristol by Michael Dodson.

The Lyde Family

Several members of the Lyde family are buried in the church and, by the porch, there is a Lyde Chapel. This family were tobacco merchants in Bristol and London with plantations in Virginia.

James Lyde (1670-1731)

A merchant in Bristol succeeding his father in the business. His will has a series of bequests which include property in and near Stanton Drew, as well as a share in a 'plantation near Potomack River in Virginia with negrees'.

(The colony of Virginia was established by the Virginia Company of London in 1607 as a result of charter from King James I.)

William Wyllys (1780-1860)

Of Morley House, Stanton Drew. He is listed as an absentee slave-owner. After the death of his wife Mary he married someone 40 years younger than him.

Previous Surveys

A photographic survey was undertaken in 2014 and the results published at Gravestone Photographic Resource. Some further images were added in 2021. In total there are 193 grave records and 621 names. By its very nature it omits those without memorials and uses the names from the memorials rather than the burial register or death registration. Thus, a forename 'Dolph' on a memorial is actually for 'Joseph Adolphus' and his wife 'Nancy' is actually 'Anna Maria'. On Another memorials is a reference to a daughter 'Edna Mary' which uses her maiden name rather than her married name.

Find a Grave has 88 records of names on memorials with a dozen or so photos of memorials.

In The History and Antiquities of Somerset by Rev John Collinson Vol II (1791) pp432-328 is a section on Stanton Drew. This includes transcriptions of some wall and floor memorials inside the church, some of which are no longer to be found.

In the church is a typewritten document in a file with the results of a survey of memorials in 2008 with addenda for later burials.

The burial register 1946-1992 has some entries annotated with the locations these in pencil as <row letter> and <plot number>. This applies solely to those burials in the new section (C) which dates from about 1930. A curiosity is that the row letters are in the range A-H before jumping to 'S'.

The 2008 survey divides the churchyard into sections A-D. 'A' is for the part north of the southern wall of the church. Memorials are given arbitrary numbers. 'B' is for the rectangular area immediately south of the southern wall of the church, 'C' is for the new rectangular area south of section B which dates from about 1929 and 'D' for the more recent area east of the area designated as 'C'. Instead of letters for rows (as in the register), numbers have been used for sections B-D.

For the first few rows of Section C there is a discrepancy between plot numbers in the register and the 2008 Survey. So 'C.02.09' in the survey corresponds to 'B10' in the register.

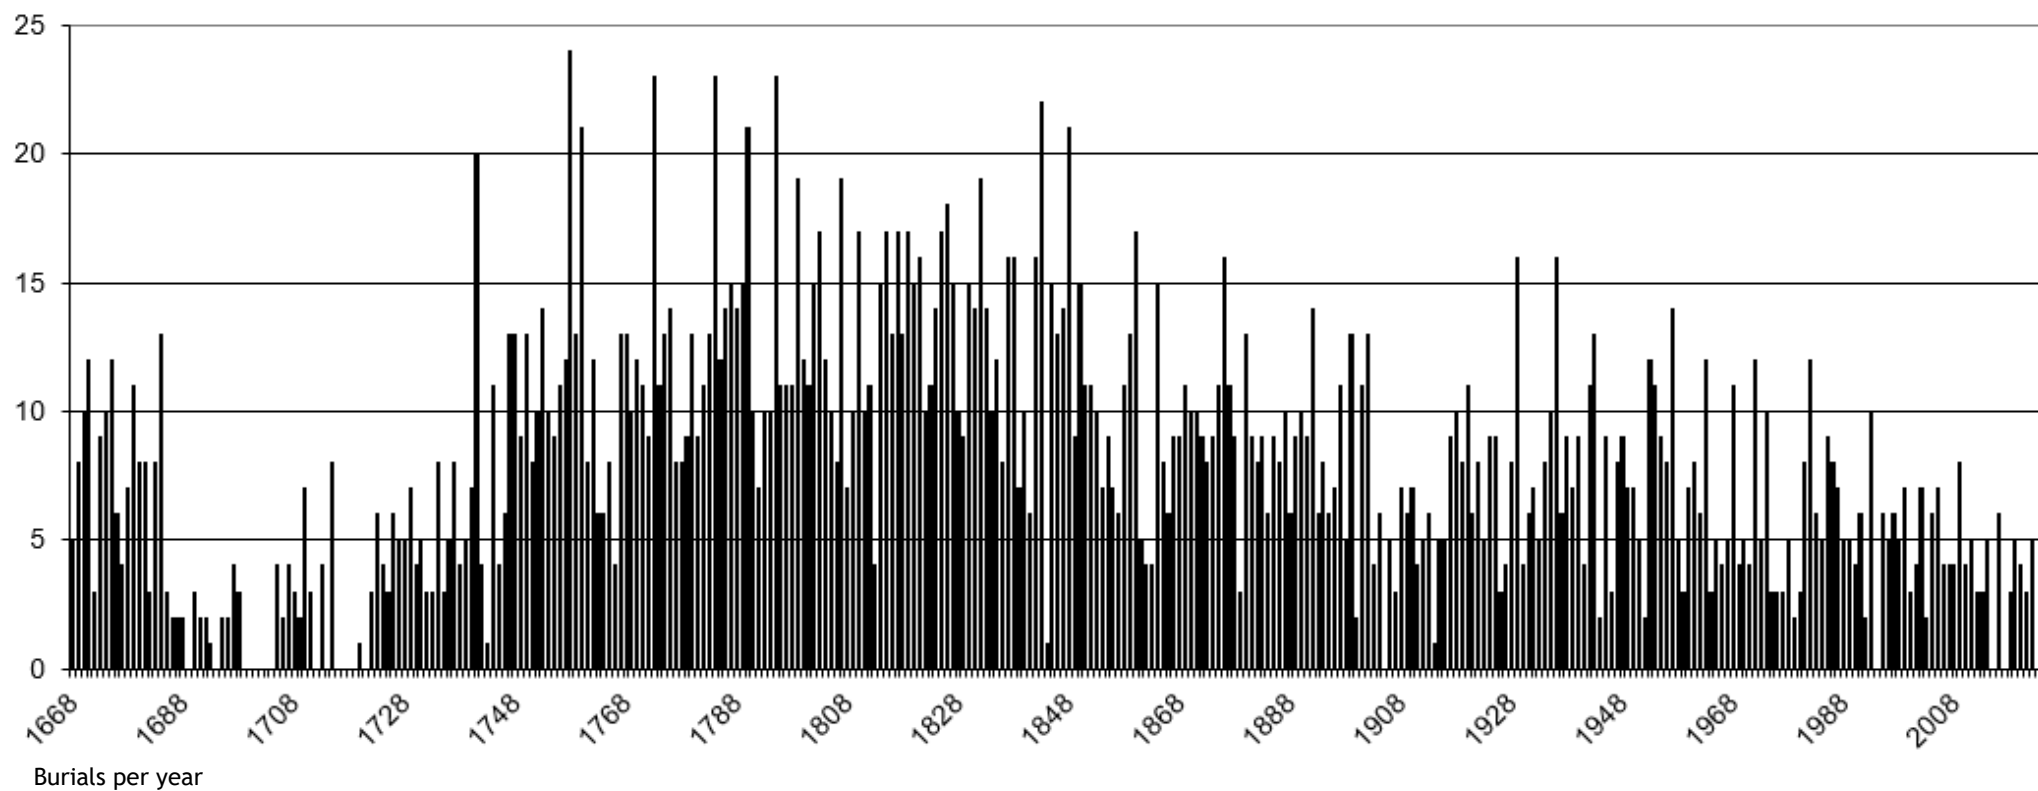

There is a recent southern extension to the churchyard. This is administered by the (secular) parish council rather than the Anglican parish.

For this document the numbers used for section A are retained so that the church's document can be consulted. For Sections B and C the rows are given letters rather than numbers, consistent with those in the registers but removing the jump from row H to row S for Section C. For Section D the numeric row numbers are retained so as to be consistent with the current register.

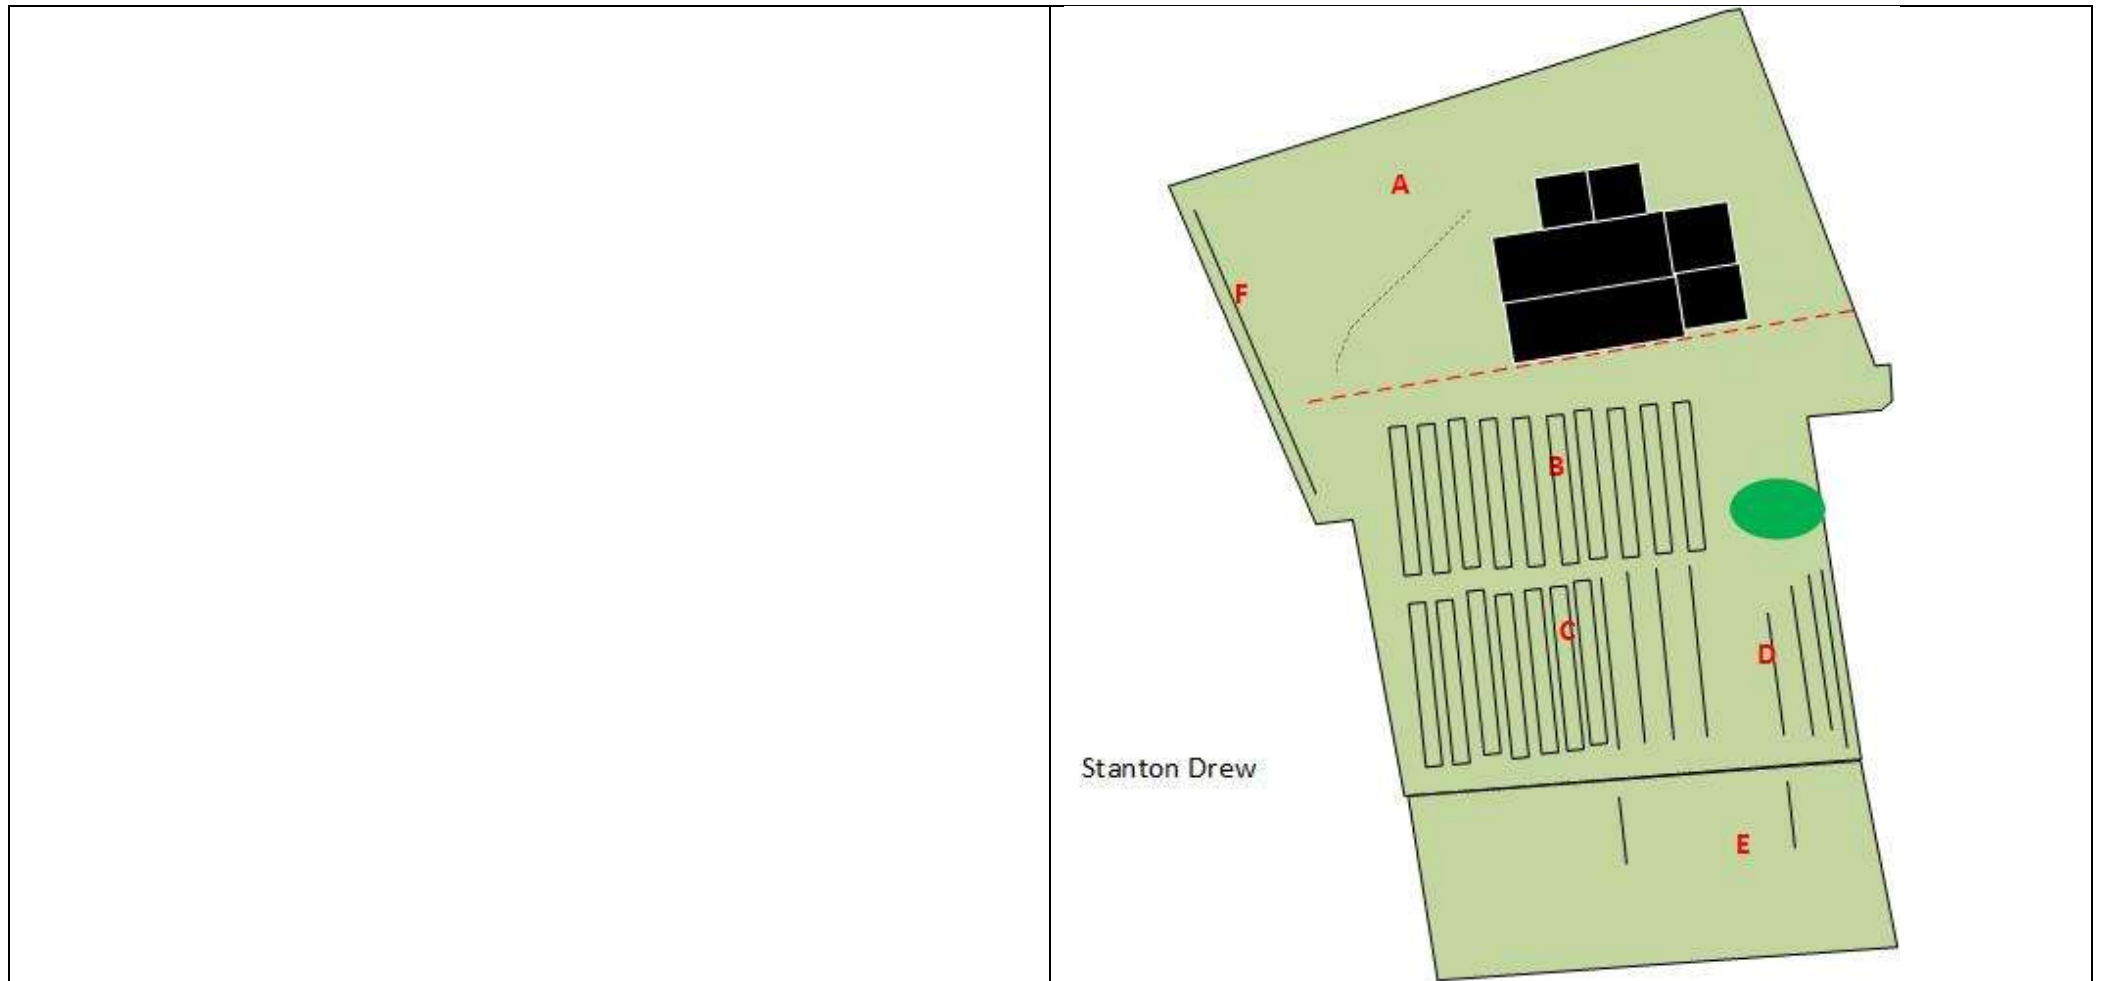

Where an inscription makes use of text from a previous survey or assumes missing characters, these are shown in grey.

I am grateful to Mrs Anne Bennett for giving access to the parish's current burial register.

Having been called to the bar, he followed his profession, first in his native town of Marlborough, and then at Bristol, to which city he removed after his marriage. In August, 1735, he was appointed recorder of Bristol. While he held that office several important questions came before him. Amongst then was the right of the city of Bristol to try capital offences committed within its jurisdiction, and the legality of pressing mariners for the public service. The former arose in 1741 in the case of the atrocious murder of Sir Dinely Goodere by his brother, Captain Goodere, who was convicted, and the authority of the city was fully established. The latter was the case of Alexander Broadfoot, indicted in 1743 for the murder of Cornelius Calahan, who had been killed in an attempt to press the prisoner. On this the recorder delivered a long opinion in support of the legality of impressment, but directed the jury to find Broadfoot guilty of manslaughter only, because Calhan had acted without any legal warrant. (State Trials, xvii, 1008; xviii. 1323.) On April 22, 1745, he was sworn in as a justice of the King's Bench, and was knighted; and for eighteen years he maintained the high judicial character he had established for himself as recorder of Bristol.
